

The Daily Tar Heel

Volume 122, Issue 52

dailytarheel.com

Saturday, August 16, 2014

6-02

After an up-and-down season, the North Carolina baseball team qualified for the Gainesville Regional in Florida. On June 2, the Tar Heels lost to Long Beach State, bringing their season to an end.

During an interview with ESPN's "Outside the Lines" former UNC men's basketball player Rashad McCants said he took paper classes while studying at UNC and thought coach Roy Williams knew about the classes.

6-06

HERE'S WHAT YOU MISSED

THE BIGGEST NEWS FROM THE SUMMER

6-17

John Woodard, owner of Sutton's Drug Store on East Franklin Street, decided to sell the pharmacy part of his business to nearby CVS after 37 years as the pharmacist. He will continue to operate the soda shop counter.

LUX at Central Park, an apartment complex under construction on Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd., notified residents that the complex would not be completed on time for everyone to move in. They later terminated 25 leases.

6-27

Julius Nyang'oro, former chairman of the AFAM department at UNC, had his fraud charge dropped on July 3 by District Attorney Jim Woodall because of his cooperation with Kenneth Wainstein's investigation into UNC.

7-01

Former UNC student-athlete learning specialist and advisor Mary Willingham sued the University on July 1 for a hostile work environment. Willingham is seeking reinstatement at the University.

7-03

7-23

School of Pharmacy Professor Feng Liu was killed after being robbed and beaten by two men in Chapel Hill. The men were arrested and charged with first-degree murder and felony counts of assault and robbery.

SEXUAL ASSAULT POLICY IN PROGRESS

UNC's Sexual Assault Task Force met for the final time in June to make changes and recommendations to the draft, which will be presented to Carol Folt. Page 6.

SPRING SPORTS' SEASONS END EARLY

Men's and women's lacrosse, men's and women's tennis and softball all ended early in the summer without a single championship win. Page 4.

CPA ANNOUNCES 2014-15 SEASON

Carolina Performing Arts announced its new season, which will include a performance by country music legend Merle Haggard on Aug. 23. Page 15.

INCENTIVE CHANGES CAUSE WORRY

Changes to the state's film incentives program have caused concern among filmmakers and students looking to work in the film industry. Page 22.

BREAKING GROUND FOR ROGERS ROAD

The groundbreaking for the Rogers Road Community Center was held on May 15 after the last community center closed in 2012. Page 25.

“ The thrill of coming home has never changed. ”

GUY PEARCE