"We receive several calls a night," said Brandie Ambler Revoy, a volunteer dedicated to fundraising for FVPC. The Ohio-born, Indiana-educated stay-at-home mother of two (Jack, 3, and Alessandra, 17 months) has been volunteering with different local nonprofits since she and her family moved here from London in January. Like her husband, Jeff, who works at CenturyLink, Revoy, 34, enjoyed a career in technology (management and marketing).

"I'm interested in the agency; I'm a big supporter of preventing and ending domestic violence, and I'm extremely impressed with Beverly."

The idea for the yard sale came out of a statement Kennedy made one day.

"Beverly said, 'I've just moved and have a lot of nice things I can't use anymore,'" Revoy said. "We polled the board and they all had something they could contribute."

The idea of a yard sale grew into reality when the venue was secured.

"University Mall was very generous and offered to allow us to use space at a greatly reduced price," Revoy said.

The mall offered the very same space where the Vintage Faire Upmarket Tag Sale benefiting the Mental Health Association of Orange County was held last year and will be this year (Oct. 3 and 4; see mhaorangeco.org), so savvy shoppers will find University Mall offering even more than usual this fall.

"We'd like to thank the Mental Health Association organizers for advice and suggestions that they provided based on the success of their annual Vintage Faire," Revoy said, noting her hopes for their success as well. "As we need more money because of state and federal cuts, there's less to get from other resources. It's challenging for everyone."

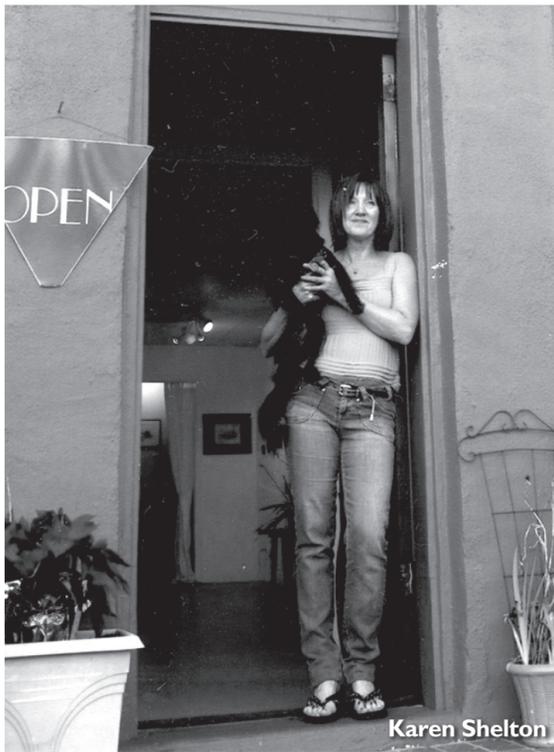

But perhaps not as much so as for the clients of both agencies. As Revoy said, "As money is harder to get, services are even more in demand. People are lashing out in other ways."

BOA

To comply, Kille must deactivate the electrical service in her apartment to ensure it's unlivable. The town is allowed to inspect the property without a search warrant to make sure she is in compliance.

If Kille does not comply with the terms of the agreement, the town will have the right to file a new motion of contempt and to require the payment of $10,000 in civil penalties.

T.C. Morphis is the town attorney who has spent the most time on this case.

"I think both sides entered into this agreement in good faith, he said. "We're trying to resolve this."

Morphis said deactivating the electricity instead of disassembling the apartment was a compromise agreement. This way, Kille could make her apartment comply with land-use ordinance codes at a later date.

Dickson Phillips, Kille's attorney, was not available for comment.

The board was also updated at Tuesday's meeting on the progress of the Bolin Creek Greenway and Morgan Creek Greenway projects.

Extra miles have been added to the Bolin Creek trail plan for a greenway along Jones Creek, and the cost is estimated to exceed the funds available for the project. The planning budget for the greenways was $145,000 and the construction budget is $1.6 million.

The Greenways Commission will ask the federal government for funding through the Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement Program.

There will be a workshop for the Bolin Creek Greenway on Sept. 21 at 6 p.m. at the Century Center. A workshop for the Morgan Creek Greenway will be held at a later date.

Randy Dodd, the Town of Carrboro's environmental planner, said it's important to continue further outreach to neighborhoods to conceptualize these developments.

In other action at the meeting:

A public hearing was set for Sept. 22 for a modification to the Winmore Subdivision conditional use permit. If the modification is then approved, the permit will allow the construction of a 10,160-foot daycare center.

The board also approved a temporary street closing for St. Joseph CME Church. The church will be hosting "Frangulism in the Park" on Sept. 12 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and Broad Street between Fowler and Hill streets will be closed for the event. About 600 people are expected to be in attendance.

Richard Perry was appointed as a town representative to the Orange County Human Relations Commission.

MARK TRAIL

SOME FORMS OF ANIMAL LIFE ARE MONOPHAGOUS, REQUIRING ONE TYPE OF FOOD. BUT THE MORE VARIED THE DIET, THE GREATER THE CHANCE OF SURVIVAL.

WE THINK OF THE BUSHY-TAILED TRIBE AS BEING DEPENDENT ON THE ANNUAL NUT AND ACORN CROP...

SINCE MAN HAS TAKEN OVER THE HAUNTS OF THE WILD ANIMALS OF THE FOREST, MANY OF THESE ADAPTABLE CREATURES CONSIDER OUR GARDENS AND ORCHARDS THEIR BANQUET TABLES - ESPECIALLY SQUIRRELS.

BUT ACTUALLY THE SQUIRREL HELPS HIMSELF TO WHATEVER NATURE HAPPENS TO PROVIDE.

TREE BUDS, FLOWER HEADS, MAPLE SAP AND MANY KINDS OF SEEDS AND FRUIT...

WHILE MUSHROOMS, INSECTS, AND THE EGGS AND YOUNG OF BIRDS ADD PROTEIN TO ITS DIET...

RODENTS ACCOUNT FOR ABOUT HALF OF THE KNOWN SPECIES OF MAMMALS, AND BECAUSE SQUIRRELS ARE SO ADAPTABLE, THEY ARE AMONG THE MOST NUMEROUS.

AND THOSE OF US WHO HAVE BIRD FEEDERS KNOW THAT IT IS NEAR IMPOSSIBLE TO KEEP THE VERY INDUSTRIOUS RODENT FROM THE FEED TROUGH!
