Cheerleaders to sit out Super Bowl

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

Football fans unsure of precisely when to support their teams will be out of luck, as this Sunday's Super Bowl will be the first in 43 years to not feature cheerleaders.

The Green Bay Packers and Pittsburgh Steelers, who will play for the NFL title this weekend, are two of six football teams who manage to play without scantily clad inspiration squads of their own.

How the lack of navels and organized dance routines will affect the quality of play remains unclear. Brief transitions from commercial break could also be in jeopardy, sources said.

A Super Bowl hasn't gone cheerleader-less since 1968.

NOTED. Maryland police arrested a man after finding his cell phone at the scene of a burglary.

The burglar jumped out a window and fled the house he was robbing when the homeowner's son arrived.

The son found the phone charging, allowing police to link it to the burglar. The man has been charged in other burglaries.

QUOTED. "That's not careless smoking. That's stupid smoking."

— Paul Corah of the Portland Police Department, after firefighters learned the cause of a house fire Wednesday morning.

The tenants had been flicking ashes and cigarettes into a hole in the floor, investigators said.

The fire caused $30,000 in damage.
