

TRIANGLE LAND
CONSERVANCY

Conservation for Generations

2015-16 Annual Report

TLC strives to create a healthier and more vibrant Triangle region by safeguarding clean water, protecting natural habitats, supporting local farms and food, and connecting people with nature through land protection and stewardship, catalyzing community action, and collaboration.

The accreditation seal is awarded to land trusts meeting the highest national standards for excellence and conservation permanence.

We are continually awed by the power of our community.

2016 was such a fruitful year. Thank you for all that you do to make the Triangle a healthier and more vibrant region. With your help we supported local farms and food, safeguarded clean water, connected people with nature, and protected natural habitats through land protection and stewardship, catalyzing community action, and collaboration.

Triangle Land Conservancy has come a long way in its 33 years. Our legacy is rooted in the vision and actions of a few community members who joined together in 1983 to protect a small piece of land. Since then we've protected nearly 18,000 acres of land and 7 miles of streams across the region. In the pages that follow, you'll read about our accomplishments in 2016: we protected 669 acres and 28,000 stream feet, launched a new website, expanded our community engagement and educational programming, and have put together a team of incredibly gifted individuals that make up our membership, staff, and board who are committed to our mission and community.

This work is forever. Your support makes that possible. We look forward to continuing our partnership for the moments, years, and generations to come.

Sandy Sweitzer, Executive Director
Triangle Land Conservancy

Russell Killen, Board Chair

6:57am, White Pines Nature Preserve

Your support enables TLC to carry out its mission around the clock. We see the Triangle region as an increasingly healthy and vibrant place to live where wild and working lands are protected and everyone has access to open space, clean water, and local food.

9:24am at J. Logan and Elinor Moore Irvin Nature Preserve

Supporting Farms and Food Cing Neam, a farmer at Transplanting Traditions Community Farm, surveys her produce on a balmy August morning.

2015-2016

3 Working Farms

Ray Farm in Wake County, Green Button Farm in Durham County, and Lindale Farm in Chatham County were protected by conservation easements.

546 Acres of Farmland Protected

Well-managed farms and associated woodlands enhance our communities by producing food and other crops and sustaining local economies.

192 Acres of Those are Considered Prime Farmland

Prime farmland, as defined by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is land that has the best combination of physical and chemical characteristics for producing food, feed, forage, fiber, and oilseed crops and is available for these uses. It could be cultivated land, pastureland, forestland, or other land.

“We have a long history of family trying to farm. This was a good way to keep the tradition rolling along.”

— Neill Lindley
Owner, Lindale Farm

2015-2016

Programming

TLC hosted over 60 public events with activities ranging from yoga and hiking to invasive species removal and trail building at our preserves. 11 programs were specifically for youth and had a total of 152 participants. More than 450 people from all six counties of the Triangle attended one of our 3 Wild Ideas events at RTP.

Habitat & Stewardship

TLC fulfilled its stewardship responsibilities for over 7,500 acres of conservation easements and over 5,000 acres of owned land, hosted environmental education and local refugee farmers at our Irvin Farm Preserve, and constructed over 7 miles of trails on our nature preserves. Over the course of 2 bioblitz events (rapid biological inventories) we identified 559 species of flora and fauna at the Sarah and Bailey Williamson Preserve at Walnut Hill and 143 species at The George and Julia Brumley Family Nature Preserve.

Volunteers

Over 300 volunteers contributed 1,700 volunteer hours for trail building, forest restoration and office projects.

"It's really important to have places where the entertainment is not structured and where people can come and have that quiet enjoyment."

— Donna Wright,
Temple Flat Rock Preserve

Safeguarding Clean Water

2015-2016

5 Miles of Stream Protected

This year we've protected over 28,000 feet of stream. That brings our total to 720,706 stream feet (136 miles) in our six county region since 1983.

142 Acres of Land in the Upper Neuse Watershed

One of the most effective ways to protect drinking water sources is to protect the land around them. Forests, wetlands, and open fields slow down rain and runoff, giving water time to filter gradually through the soil. This traps sediment and pollutants before they flow into streams and lakes, and allows groundwater to recharge.

Durham's Drinking Water

We began a new partnership with the Durham Department of Water Management to develop a watershed protection plan for the Little River and Lake Michi Reservoirs to build on UNCWI efforts.

"It's fascinating to see kids thinking about nature as something that's interesting and worth studying."

— Barbara Goldentyer
