5. Increase inclusivity as a whole on campus.

Student Union renovation

What is it?
Referendum to increase student fees for a project that would make the bottom floor of the Student Union a better utilized space.

Pros:

- Increased meeting and rehearsal space
- Updated Union Cabaret
- 24/7 area for students to study and congregate

Cons:

- Will cost each student an additional $16 every year for 30 years.
- Graduate students argue they rarely use the space.
- Student Congress voted to keep the referendum off of today's ballot. Representatives argued that the project was inappropriate considering the financial hardship the University is facing.

Fee: $8 per semester for 30 years
*Does not include Phase 1, which has already received approval. Phase 1 will bring a Wendy's and meeting rooms to the Union's east wing.

What is needed?

- Petitioners had to collect 2,939 signatures for the referendum
- At least 2.5 percent of students must vote
- Majority of the at least 2.5 percent must vote in favor

Why now?

- Union officials said that if they do not act now, construction prices will climb, making the project more expensive.

BY THE NUMBERS

$8

Fee that would be implemented per semester for students

$11

Million in construction costs for the Union

30

Number of years students would pay the renovation fee

Uncontested races

Graduate and Professional Student Federation

The points:
1. Affordability
Work to make sure tuition increases are equal and realistic.
Advocate for modified fee structures to diminish some of the burden on graduate and professional students.
Continue to work with student government to seek fee waivers for graduate students who are not taking classes.
Advocate for fair increases in TA stipends as tuition and fees increase.

Serena Witzke hopes to advocate for fair increases in TA stipends.

2. Flexibility
Protect graduate students' enrollment and status at UNC when they are away for outside work.
Advocate for more summer support and teaching positions for graduate students.

3. Accountability
Advocate for a new sexual harassment policy with the GPSF special committee on sexual harassment.
Direct members of cabinet to compile a website with an index of services, options and resources available to graduate students.

Carolina Athletic Association

The points:
1. Ticketing
- A lottery for the two biggest football games of the year that will draw the largest crowds will be based on seniority. Those with senior standing will be given a single ticket to the game first, with any remaining tickets to be distributed through the lottery system.
- The lottery for the men's home basketball game against Duke University will continue to be based on seniority.
- A student advisory committee will evaluate the new student ticket policy and discuss changes if necessary.

Caitlin Goforth hopes to bring more visibility to non-revenue sports.

2. Homecoming
- Increase the number of events for students to participate in throughout Homecoming Week.
- The CAA will collaborate with other student organizations to host events throughout the week that will raise money for philanthropy.
- Continue to bring an artist that will draw a big student crowd to the Homecoming concert.

3. Visibility
- Increase the presence of the CAA and of non-revenue sports on campus.

Residence Hall Association

The points:
1. Visibility
Use online and in-community resources to bring students in touch with their representatives.
2. Advocacy
Streamline the process of sending concerns by providing a suggestions and issues box for each community.
Focus on the RHA website as the primary means for online advocacy.

Sophomore Hans Peng hopes to increase RHA's visibility.

3. Bike share
Program would allow students to check out a bike from their communities and return it within one to two days.
Provide a healthier, greener alternative for campus travel and to avoid crowding on buses.

4. Technology
Strengthen ties with ResNET to collaborate on projects such as the installation of Netflix in residence halls.
Includes partnerships from programming and community enhancements to marketing and networking.
