The Daily Tar Heel

dailytarheel.com Volume 122, Issue 104 Friday, October 31, 2014

See page 3 for continued Wainstein coverage

Centers at UNC respond to review

The Board of Governors is looking to cut spending in UNC centers.

By Tat'yana Berdan Staff Writer

The Morehead Planetarium, the Ackland Art Museum and the Carolina Women's Center are among 26 UNC-CH centers and institutes under a UNC Board of Governors review but some center directors say they aren't concerned about their organization's futures.

A working group of board members is examining the UNC-system's centers for possible budget cuts or termination, in response to a mandate by the N.C. General Assembly to consider taking $15 million away from the centers and redistributing it to other UNC-system priorities.

"We don't have a preset outcome," said James Holmes, a board member who is part of the working group. "It's going to come down to asking questions about how individual centers fit within the mix of the university system."

Todd Boyette, director of the Morehead Planetarium, said this is the first time the Planetarium has undergone this type of review and is on the list because it receives in-kind support, which is non-monetary

He said he has no concerns about how the Planetarium will fare in the review process.

"The University of North Carolina has a three-prong mission: teaching, research and public service," he said. "And the Morehead Planetarium and Science Center has a 65-year history of providing public service that the university relies on to meet its mission."

The second phase of review will take place during the next month and involve determining which of the 91 centers that remain in limbo should move onto the final round. Six institutes have already been moved to the last stage of review, including UNC's Center for Civil Rights.

These centers that continue to the final round of the review will give presentations in front of the working group at its December meeting, and the group will then make final recommendations to the board.

Carol Tresolini, vice provost for academic initiatives, said in an email that UNC-CH has its own policy for reviewing its centers and institutes, which involves evaluating whether they meet specific goals and obtaining feedback from clients.

Nine of the centers on the board's review list report to Tresolini, including the Morehead Planetarium.

SEE CENTERS, PAGE 4

ON TO PLAYMAKERS, INTO THE WOODS

DTH/HALLE SINNOTT

Lisa Brescia is the Witch in the PlayMakers Repertory Company production of "Into the Woods." The play's first performance will take place Sunday.

PlayMakers opens 'Into the Woods' to rotate with 'Midsummer'

By Robert McNeely Staff Writer

The design of PlayMakers' latest undertaking is not immaterial. It is about storytelling.

From the detail and extravagance of the costumes to the intricate staging of multiple sets, the company is presenting its rotating repertory of "Into the Woods" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" around one  ${\it central \ design \ element-the}$

"The woods participate in both plays in similar ways, although they're being used to pursue different themes," said Joseph Haj, producing artistic director for PlayMakers.

"There's loss of innocence, there's a maturity, there's a

"We want a story to understand who we are, our place in the world — that's the power of narrative."

Joseph Haj,

PlayMakers producing artistic director sexual awakening, and all this gets explored in the concept of the woods." Haj is directing "Into the Woods" and co-directed the 2013 rotating repertory around the theme of water. He had the idea to pair this year's shows together and said it was about putting the plays in conversation.

"Into the Woods," which opens Sunday and runs through Dec. 6, is a contemporary musical involving characters from the Grimm fairy tales,

while "A Midsummer Night's and runs through Dec. 7, is a Shakespearean comedy.

tie them together.

Dream," which opens Saturday

Though the shows are stylistically different, scenic designer

Marion Williams said both of the shows have elements that

"Both shows are in literal more symbolic," she said. "We both, but the way those trees actually have trees on stage for woods, but in some cases it feels

Time: Saturday, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and Sunday, "Into the Woods;" 7:30 p.m.

ROTATING REPERTORY

Location: Paul Green Theatre Info: playmakersrep.org an online photo gallery of "Into the Woods," visit dailytarheel.com are dealt with, treated and perceived, changes." Williams designed the set for both shows and said wood had a big role in its construction.

"It's all meant to be coming out of the wood and forest," she

SEE PLAYMAKERS, PAGE 4

Town prepares for costumed revelry

Officials are expecting increased Homegrown Halloween attendance.

By Jasmin Singh Assistant City Editor

With Halloween on a Friday this year, the town of Chapel Hill is expecting a bigger costumed crowd at its annual Homegrown Halloween celebration, now that revelers won't have to go to school and work the next day.

Starting at 9 p.m., the town will close off downtown roads, including parts of Franklin, Columbia, Raleigh and Henderson streets, to ensure pedestrian safety during the threehour celebration.

Lt. Joshua Mecimore, spokesman for the Chapel Hill Police Department, said there haven't been any major issues in the past few years, and he doesn't expect any this year.

"We expect that folks will continue to act responsibly and respectfully," Mecimore said.

Officials are striving to limit attendees to students and local residents.

"We try to discourage folks from out of town from coming because there's no parking, there's no shuttle buses, there's no transportation for that," he said. "This is meant to be a hometown Halloween event, not one for folks who are from outside of the town.

The town started Homegrown

Kevin Coley, in purple, poses on Franklin Street during the 2013 Homegrown Halloween. Coley dressed up as Captain Ginyu from the show "Dragon Ball Z."

Halloween in 2008, when it managed to reduce the crowd size by more than half. In 2007, about 80,000 people participated in the event. The next year, only 35,000 attended.

Though there is no way of knowing how big the crowd will become tonight, Mecimore said it might be larger than it was in 2013, when 30,000 people descended on Franklin Street.

"We are certainly planning for the possibility that there might be a slightly larger crowd because it's a Friday night, but we have no way to know what that might actually be," he said. Some businesses on Franklin Street said they'll welcome the larger crowds. Chris Carini, owner of Linda's Bar & Grill on Franklin Street, said Chapel Hill's Homegrown Halloween used to be a cool destination for visitors, but now that it caters specifically to residents and students, there are far fewer people. "You can imagine, businesses used to do fantastic on those nights and now we're doing less than half of what

SEE HALLOWEEN, PAGE 4

Local man pleads guilty of murder

Ali Cherfaoui was sentenced for killing his estranged wife in 2012.

By Sam James Staff Writer

On Monday, Ali Cherfaoui pleaded guilty to the 2012 seconddegree murder of his estranged wife Chahnaz Kebaier.

Cherfaoui, 51, was sentenced to a minimum of 31 years or a maximum of 43 years in prison.

On May 25, 2012, at 2:08 p.m., Chapel Hill police responded to reports of a shooting incident outside Mary Scroggs Elementary School, according to Chapel Hill police reports.

Kebaier, 40, was found injured outside the school. She was admitted to UNC Hospitals' emergency room and pronounced dead at 4:08 p.m. the same day from multiple gunshot wounds.

"The basic gist of it was the suspect went to the school his children were, at a time he knew his estranged wife would be there and walked up and shot her," said Lt. Joshua Mecimore, spokesman for Chapel Hill police.

Cherfaoui was arrested shortly after the shooting when officers stopped a suspicious vehicle.

He was charged with firstdegree murder and later with possession of a gun on educational property, discharging a weapon on educational property and second-degree kidnapping.

The incident was part of a domestic dispute between Cherfaoui and Kebaier, according to police.

Cherfaoui has pleaded guilty to three of the four initial charges. He pleaded guilty to having a gun on educational property Sept. 2., to discharging a weapon on educational property Sept. 16 and to second-degree kidnapping Oct. 14.

As part of a plea bargain with the prosecution, Cherfaoui pleaded guilty to murder Monday in exchange for the charge being reduced from first-degree to second-degree murder.

Lt. Mecimore said that in a situation like this, the children would usually be placed in the care of family or of a foster family.

Assistant District Attorney Michelle Hamilton said that as she's concerned, the case is closed.

"He has resolved all of his cases in Orange County," she said.

city@dailytarheel.com

THE WITCH, "INTO THE WOODS"

The Daily Tar Heel

www.dailytarheel.com

Established 1893 121 years of editorial freedom

JENNY SURANE

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF EDITOR@DAILYTARHEEL.COM KATIE REILLY

MANAGING EDITOR MANAGING.EDITOR@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

JORDAN NASH FRONT PAGE NEWS EDITOR ENTERPRISE@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

TARA JEFFRIES FRONT PAGE NEWS EDITOR ENTERPRISE@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

MCKENZIE COEY

PRODUCTION DIRECTOR DTH@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

BRADLEY SAACKS UNIVERSITY EDITOR UNIVERSITY@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

HOLLY WEST CITY EDITOR CITY@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

SARAH BROWN STATE & NATIONAL EDITOR STATE@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

GRACE RAYNOR SPORTS EDITOR SPORTS@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

GABRIELLA CIRELLI ARTS & CULTURE EDITOR ARTS@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

TYLER VAHAN DESIGN & GRAPHICS EDITOR DESIGN@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

CHRIS GRIFFIN

VISUAL EDITOR PHOTO@DAILYTARHEEL.COM MARISA DINOVIS,

KATHLEEN HARRINGTON COPY CO-EDITORS COPY@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

PAIGE LADISIC ONLINE EDITOR ONLINE@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

AMANDA ALBRIGHT INVESTIGATIONS LEADER SPECIAL.PROJECTS@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

MARY BURKE INVESTIGATIONS ART DIRECTOR SPECIAL.PROJECTS@DAILYTARHEEL.COM

Contact Managing Editor Katie Reilly at managing.editor@dailytarheel.com with tips, suggestions or corrections.

Mail and Office: 151 E. Rosemary St. Chapel Hill, NC 27514 Jenny Surane, Editor-in-Chief, 962-4086 Advertising & Business, 962-1163 News, Features, Sports, 962-0245

One copy per person; additional copies may be purchased at The Daily Tar Heel for $0.25 each. Please report suspicious activity at our distribution racks by emailing dth@dailytarheel.com

© 2014 DTH Media Corp. All rights reserved

DAILY

Man feigns Ebola on 911 call

e're already paranoid enough about Ebola spreading throughout the U.S., but North Carolinians shouldn't panic too soon — a Raleigh man's 911 phone call, in which he told dispatchers that he had the infectious disease, was bogus. Police charged the 39-year-old man on Oct. 17 with misdemeanor misuse of the 911 system after investigators concluded that he had been lying about having Ebola to get a faster ambulance response, according to reports from WRAL News. Police say the man became belligerent when dispatchers started questioning him about his Ebola symptoms. We'll go ahead and cross the "faking Ebola" tactic off our list of ways to reduce emergency room wait times.

NOTED. A Chinese man got a nasty side dish with the sushi meal he ordered: a body infected with worms.

The man went to the doctor complaining of stomach pain and itchy skin, caused by a tapeworm infection. I guess this is a reminder to take those disclaimers about eating undercooked fish seriously.

QUOTED. "I was watching the game, and I said, 'I want my head to look like Tom Brady's helmet."

- Victor Thompson, who is apparently the world's most devoted fan of Patriots quarterback Tom Brady. His head's tattoos that mirror Brady's helmet exactly. Officers took extra mugshots when he was arrested.

COMMUNITY CALENDAR

TODAY

Halloween Costume Contest: The Carolina Union's costume contest offers prizes to winning participants, including food truck rodeo vouchers, gift cards to Sugarland and Carolina Union Activities Board homecoming tickets. All participants can eniov music and refreshments. Costume judging is at 11:30 a.m. Time: 11 a.m.

Location: Carolina Union West

Carrboro Halloween Carnival:

This event includes familyfriendly, fun Halloween activities appropriate for all ages, including carnival games and a variety of food and drinks available at the concession stand. The event is free and there is no registration required.

Time: 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Location: 301 W. Main St.

Carrboro Pumpkin Carving Contest: Enter a pumpkin for a chance to have it displayed at the annual Halloween Carnival later in the day. Entries must be received at the Carrboro Town Commons by 3 p.m. Residents will be the judge of the best pumpkin. The event is free and open to the public.

Time: 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Location: 301 W. Main St. SATURDAY

"A Midsummer Night's Dream": Presented in rotating

repertory with "Into the Woods," PlayMakers Repertory Company will feature the Shakespearean comedy. Tickets for the performance start at $15. Time: 7:30 p.m.

Location: Paul Green Theatre, Center for Dramatic Art

To make a calendar submission, email calendar@dailvtarheel.com. Please include the date of the event in the subject line, and attach a photo if you wish. Events will be published in the newspaper on either the day or the day before they take place.

CORRECTIONS

Due to a reporting error, Thursday's page 4 story "DeSimone receives national recognition" incorrectly stated the name of one of Joseph DeSimone's most well-known inventions. He invented a bioabsorbable coronary heart stent. The Daily Tar Heel apologizes for the error.

• The Daily Tar Heel reports any inaccurate information published as soon as the error is discovered. · Editorial corrections will be printed on this page. Errors committed on the Opinion Page have corrections printed on that page. Corrections also are noted in the online versions of our stories. Contact Managing Editor Katie Reilly at managing.editor@dailytarheel.com with issues about this policy.

I Like us at facebook.com/dailytarheel

📘 Follow us on Twitter @dailytarheel

CAN'T BEET THIS

DTH/ANI GARRIGO

uniors Marisa Scavo (left) and Sandra Moraleda stand outside of the Student Union with The Sonder Market cart on Thursday. The Sonder Market is a student-run grocery with the goal of providing local, sustainable food at affordable prices.

POLICE LOG

· Someone reported a breaking and entering and larceny at the 400 block of N.C. 54 at 5:44 p.m. Wednesday, according to Carrboro police reports.

A computer valued at $2,600 and a guitar valued at $700 were stolen, reports state.

- · Someone reported a suspicious condition at the 500 block of Jones Ferry Road at 9:22 p.m. Wednesday, according to Carrboro police reports.
- Someone attempted a breaking and entering at the 400 block of South Greensboro Street between 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, according to Carrboro police reports.
- Someone reported larceny of car parts and accessories at the 200 block of Old Barn Lane at 10:18 p.m. Wednesday, according to Chapel Hill police reports. The stolen parts were valued at $50, reports state.

- Someone drove while impaired at 976 Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd. at 1:43 a.m. Wednesday, according to Chapel Hill police reports.
- Someone complained of loud noise caused by landscaping equipment at 103 Lancaster Drive at 7:41 a.m. Wednesday, according to Chapel Hill police reports.
- Suspicious possible prank calls were received at 512 Colony Woods Drive at 7:03 p.m. Wednesday, according to Chapel Hill police reports.
- Someone reported credit card fraud at UNC's McGavran Greenberg Hall at 10:29 a.m. Thursday, according to reports from the UNC Department of Public Safety.

ATTENTION FIRST-YEAR STUDENTS

You can become a Robertson Scholar!

Each year, first-year UNC students are invited to apply for the Robertson Scholars Leadership Program.

Join us for an information session to learn more about this opportunity!

Monday, November 10th, 7-8pm Gardner 105

- Meet current scholars and staff members
- Discuss program benefits and expectations
- Review important information about the application and selection process

(Application deadline: January 26)

ATHLETIC-ACADEMIC SCANDAL

DISCREPANCIES IN STATEMENTS

The Daily Tar Heel analyzed past quotes from those implicated in the Wainstein report compared to what Wainstein himself wrote.

THEN

"We are arguing that this was Michael McAdoo's work, even the citations were his work."

Dick Baddour, about the reports that

McAdoo's paper was plagiarized

"The clearest example of (knowing about the classes) was the plagiarized paper that Michael McAdoo submitted."

Wainstein, about Baddour's knowledge of the irregular classes

"I've done more than anybody could think to address the problem ... We know some of the things that went on."

Jan Boxill, about her role in fixing the UNC athletic-academic scandal former director of the Parr Center for Ethics and professor in the Philosophy Department

"Jan Boxill was fully aware of the lax work requirements and grading standards in the paper classes."

Wainstein, about Boxill's knowledge of the irregular classes at UNC

"Please keep in mind that neither the NCAA nor the University's investigation even suggestea any wrongdoing on my part."

Butch Davis, about allegations that he was fired because of the investigation

former Head Football Coach

"He certainly knew by ... November 2009 ... that football players in these courses 'didn't go to class.'"

Wainstein, about Davis' knowledge of the nature of the irregular classes

"Afro-American studies is a solid educational discipline that has piqued the interest of students."

"Nyang'oro graded the papers, but did so with an eye to boosting student GPAs, regardless of paper quality."

Wainstein, about the way Nyang'oro graded the irregular classes

Julius Nyang'oro, about the popularity of African and Afro-American studies

"Was this an academic or an athletic issue? Clearly it was an issue in both areas. It was a University issue."

Carol Folt,

COMPILED BY JORDAN NASH

about the UNC athletic-academic scandal

Task force OKs tuition increases

The group recommended increases in professional school tuition and fees.

By Melody Jiang Staff Writer

The Tuition and Fee Advisory Task Force voted Thursday to approve several tuition increases for UNC professional schools. Its recommendations will be passed on to the Chancellor and Board of Trustees for the 2015-16 academic year.

One of the proposed increases was for the UNC Medical School, which, if approved, would raise tuition by 13.2 percent for North Carolina residents and 5.5 percent for non-residents.

Despite tuition increases for this year, UNC has the lowest undergraduate resident tuition and fees out of its peer group of institutions as defined by the UNC General Administration.

"For nonresident tuition, UNC is also within the bottom quartile," said Dwayne Pinkney, vice provost for finance and academic planning.

The task force also decided to submit a proposed tuition increase for the UNC Kenan-Flagler Business School of 8.8 percent for state residents and 3.7 percent for nonresidents.

Proposed tuition increases for the UNC School of Dentistry and the UNC Eshelman School of Pharmacy were less than 5 percent.

After discussing the current status of UNC tuition and fees, the task force spent the majority of the next hour discussing cuts and increases presented by the Student Fee Advisory Subcommittee, a group composed of representatives from the student body, faculty, staff and provost's office.

approved fees for students in the School of Dentistry ranging from $300 to $900 for clinical technology. Members considered the proposals detailed and appropriate.

The students were satisfied with the outcome here," said Laurie Burroughs, business manager for finance and administration.

One fee increase that was contentious was the fee for Chapel Hill Transit and Safe Ride.

This year, the Advisory Committee on Transportation requested an $18.75 increase for transit services, which the Student Fees Advisory Subcommittee approved. The transit committee also requested a $9 increase, which it also requested in 2013 before it was denied. The committee brought that combined request to the task force meeting for approval on Thursday, but the task force did not reach a consensus on the total fee increase.

Members of the Student Fee Advisory Committee took issue with how the transit committee had developed its five-year financial plan.

Student Body President Andrew Powell said the plan involved little student input and was at odds with the individual fees reviewed by the student committee on a yearly basis.

Students will work with the Advisory Committee on Transportation to develop its plans in the future, Powell said.

"We'll be heavily involved and bringing the highest level of scrutiny to the entirety of the five-year plan with the expectation that, once that five-year plan is approved, then that serves as a commitment to those fee increases that will be levied," he said.

university@dailytarheel.com

ATHLETIC-ACADEMIC SCANDAL

Students respond to report in panel

Athletes defended their academic experiences to peers and administrators.

By Rebecca Brickner

Emotions ran high in Carroll Hall Thursday night as a student panel led more than 100 people in a discussion of Kenneth Wainstein's report.

The panel consisted of eight UNC students from varied backgrounds: Student Body President Andrew Powell, four athletes representing four teams and three other students.

Powell opened the floor to students' questions by recognizing the report's impact on the campus.

"All of us are deeply disappointed in what has happened," he said. "I've been encouraged by all of you and your resolve to move forward from this situation and be stronger."

Early discussion centered on the racial implications of the Wainstein report perceived by groups like The Real Silent Sam Coalition.

Panelist Taylor Webber-Fields, a senior African, African American and diaspora studies major and Real Silent Sam organizer, said her interest in the report was motivated not only by her major but also by her experiences as a black person.

"I feel that this investigation was an attack on my scholarship and my race," she said. "There are certain racial undertones that have not been addressed yet that need to be discussed."

Charity Watkins, a graduate adviser for Student Wellness' Diversity and Inclusiveness in Collegiate Environments initiative who attended the panel, asked about the focus on the former African and Afro-American studies department when fraternities and other departments have also been implicated.

"There's a lot of power in what has been presented, as well as what remains invisible," she said.

When attendees called into question the investigation's potential biases, Powell defended Wainstein.

"He has an unbelievable record in terms of being an independent investigator and figuring out exactly what happens within organizations, while being as unbiased as a human can be," he said.

UNC junior Jarrod James, a former football player who sat on the panel, said he began experiencing scrutiny in 2012, his redshirt season. "Why are we being punished?" he said. "The people who were involved are not here anymore."

Swimmer, panelist and Student-Athlete Advisory Council co-chairwoman Kelly Corish addressed questions on the problems that arise when athletics coexist with academics.

"I don't think we're the only school in the NCAA who has problems like these," she said.

Corish also spoke about the discrimination she has experienced as an athlete at UNC. She said classmates have avoided working with her on projects because she is an athlete.

She feels students don't see that athletes aren't just here to play sports. "I'm sick of people implying that athletes aren't students," she said.

university@dailytarheel.com

Bill Clinton returns to NC in final campaign push for Hagan

Clinton will join the Democratic senator in Raleigh this afternoon.

By Michael Liguori Staff Writer

Former President Bill Clinton will be back in North Carolina today for the second time in a month to drum up the Democratic base in the election's home stretch.

Clinton will join Sen. Kay Hagan at Broughton High School in Raleigh. The event is free and open to the public, and doors open at 2:45 p.m.

He joins a wave of prominent political names running through North Carolina during this election season - including Sen. Rand Paul, Gov. Chris Christie, Rep. Debbie Wasserman-Schultz, Hillary Clinton and Mitt Romney. Clinton holds a 64 percent approval rating according to a June Gallup poll, making him the most popular living president.

John Dinan, a political science professor at Wake Forest University, said in an email that gaining new supporters is not the goal of this rally. "The intent at this point is generally not to persuade undecided voters, but to catch the attention of leaning Republican or leaning Democratic voters and motivate them to head to the polls in cases where they might not be thinking about the election or planning to vote," he said.

Dinan said the presence of a former president turns the election into a high-profile event, meant to maximize excitement among supporters and flood the news media. The tactic, he said, is more about fighting voter apathy and convincing any voters sitting on the fence.

"Who are the big-name national Democrats, exactly?" said Steven Greene, an N.C. State University political science professor. "If you don't want to bring in the President, which (Hagan) obviously doesn't, there's not the same kind of people with the same kind of name recognition and general positive feeling (as Clinton)."

The statistical analysis website FiveThirtyEight recently calculated that Hagan has a 61 percent chance of winning, as she has held a consistent 3 to 4 percentage point lead over Tillis for several months.

Tom Jensen, director of Raleighbased Public Policy Polling, said his firm's data is more conflicted.

"We found the lead shifting back and forth between Hagan and Tillis from November to May," Jensen said. "Most of the undecided voters that make up their minds are voting for Tillis."

Sean Haugh is a Libertarian candidate in the race, and while only receiving around 5 percent support, he has had a speculated "spoiler effect" for Tillis, drawing support from normally Republican voters.

Public Policy Polling's report suggests that this is likely not the case. When questioned on who their second choice would be, 30 percent of Haugh's supporters answered

Hagan, and 34 percent answered

Tillis, meaning that Hagan is losing

With undecided and independent point, candidates can focus on excitalmost as much to Haugh as Tillis.

voters mostly accounted for at this ing their bases. Greene said having Clinton make an appearance is the most logical choice for Hagan.

"Everybody knows that any major Democrat is going to support Hagan and any major Republican is going to support Tillis," Greene said.

Clinton's general popularity, as well as his strong and uncontroversial identity as a Democrat, make him the ideal endorsement, Greene said.

"It's a lot easier to be popular when you're a former president than a current president. He's popular, and he probably excites the base almost as much as Obama does."

state@dailytarheel.com

HALLOWEEN

FROM PAGE 1

that was when it was very, very good," Carini said. "So basically just another busy  $night \ for \ us-nothing \ special$ like it used to be."

As it has in previous years, the town is encouraging downtown restaurants and bars to close their doors to new customers at 1 a.m., though, legally they're still able to stay open later.

Lauren Shoaf, sales manager for Fitzgerald's Irish Pub at 206 W. Franklin St., said the restaurant will still be open on Halloween night.

"Last year was the first time we were open for Halloween, and it was definitely a busy night, and so we are expecting the same this year, even more since it's a Friday," she said.

"We are expecting more business throughout the weekend than a normal weekend."

One of the police department's main concerns is overconsumption of alcohol. The department will have about 400 police officers at the event and alcohol checkpoints as well as DWI enforcement will be in place, according to a town press release.

Mecimore said the cost of managing this year's event should be close to 2013 expenses, which totaled $188,310.

"I would expect this year to be somewhere in line with that, probably slightly more because we have some more resources available knowing that there's the possibility that the crowd size might be larger because of it being on a Friday," he said.

city@dailytarheel.com

HOMEGROWN RULES

The following items are prohibited during Homegrown Halloween:

- Alcoholic beverages
- Glass bottles
- Paint
- Fireworks
- Explosives
- Flammable substances
- Live animals
- Coolers
- Weapons of any kind
- Items resembling weapons
- Items made of wood, metal, cardboard or plastic

CENTERS

FROM PAGE 1

"I hope that the outcome (of the board's review) will be an affirmation of the mission and value of each center or institute," she said. "The centers and institutes provide resources and extensive service to the university and the community."

According to board documents, centers were chosen for further review if they met one or more of three criteria: if they have a budget of less than $50,000, have an economic return ratio of less than twoto-one or receive more than $100,000 of in-kind support.

Holmes said making it to the final round of review does not necessarily mean centers will face budget cuts or termination.

"In an age of greater accountability, I think they're trying to look at everything closely."

Peter Coclanis,

Director of the Global Research Institute

"If there are those that aren't on mission, seem to not fit within our purpose, then sure we can opt to terminate if we find some that we feel like funds are better purposed elsewhere," he said. "But how it will look, I don't know."

The Global Research Institute is up for review because it operates on a budget of less than $50,000 - allof which comes from private donors, said institute Director Peter Coclanis.

He said he hasn't been involved much in the review process, and most of the data he has been asked to provide relates to quantitative measures such as the institute's size and scope.

"In an age of greater accountability, I think they're trying to look at everything closely to see if there are redundancies," he said.

Holmes said the working group plans to put together a final report by Dec. 31. He said beyond that, the board plans to develop a uniform set of policies for the creation and review of centers throughout the system — a project that will continue into 2015.

state@dailytarheel.com

Need Thanksgiving Plans? Enter by November 6

WIN ATRIP FORTWO

to Paradise Island to cheer for the Tar Heels in the

2014 Battle 4 Atlantis

CAROLINA GEORGETOWN OKLAHOMA UCLA WISCONSIN FLORIDA UAB

Enter at these locations

- Best Tile
- Buns
- Carolina Coffee Shop
- Cameron's
- Coleman Huntoon & Brown
- Dickey's Barbecue Pit F&F Automotive
- Five Guys
- Four Corners
- Glasshalfull
- Great Outdoor Provision Co.
- Grimball Jewelers
- Hickory Tavern
- Homewatch CareGivers
- Jersey Mike's (S. Elliott Road + Chapel Hill North)
- JewelRecycle
- Lloyd Tire
- Louise Beck Properties
- Mark Vitali Nationwide Insurance
- PTA Thrift Shop (Chapel Hill + Carrboro)
- R&R Grill
- Terra Nova Global Properties
- The Root Cellar
- The UPS Store (Fordham Blvd + Meadowmont)
- Venable Rotisserie Bistro

PLAYMAKERS

FROM PAGE 1

said. "It's a wooden floor, there are the trees of course, the props — the dominant material certainly is wood."

The "Midsummer Night's Dream" set was designed to be a more basic forest because of the style of Shakespeare, while the set for "Into the Woods" is more lavish, with a grand library and decorations.

Lisa Brescia, who plays the Witch in "Into the Woods," said the costume design has been equally elaborate.

"I'm extremely impressed with the drapers and the designers," she said. "The quality of the craftsmanship that goes into making these costumes is as high as any I've seen on Broadway." Brescia has starred in Broadway shows, such as "Mamma Mia!" and "Wicked," and said costuming can be freakishly transforming. She said her initial costume for the Witch is made almost entirely of vegetables.

"The dress itself is fabric, made up of additions of detail that are vegetationbased," she said.

"There are cabbage leaves and ivy-like green foliage, there are roots that come out of the costume — it's as if she's become one with nature."

Brescia said she has multiple costume changes, wearing everything from a dress that looks like it's made of water to a two-piece witch's mask designed for mobility. Though she has seen the show before, Brescia said the changes for this production tell the story in a unique way.

The witch's progression of costumes is rooted in the garden she manages," said Bill Brewer, the costume designer for the show.

"We see these people with our eyes before we hear them sing, or speak or anything else, and we need to understand who they are visually before they can take us anywhere."

Brewer said the iconography of the show would be rooted in the 1950s as a way of tying the show into America's "happily ever after."

"I don't want a Disney version of this," he said. "I wanted these to be real people with real life struggles."

Haj said the shows' designs are powerful because both plays are somewhat representative of the unknown world. He said connecting through stories is how people find their places in life.

"We all want a story," he

"We want a story to understand who we are, our place in the world — that's the power of narrative."

arts@dailytarheel.com

FOR DIRECTIONS...IF YOU DARE!

Sports Friday

SCHEDULE

FOOTBALL: at Miami, Saturday @ 12:30 p.m. VOLLEYBALL: vs. Miami, Friday @ 6 p.m. MEN'S SOCCER: vs. Virginia, Saturday @ 7 p.m. WOMEN'S SOCCER: at Syracuse, Sunday @ 1 p.m. FOLLOW US ON TWITTER: @DTHSports

IT'S BASKETBALL SEASON

PROJECTED FINISHES

Duke The Blue Devils finished third in the ACC in 2013-14 but are projected to finish first this season.

North Carolina The Tar Heels are projected to finish second in the ACC after last year's fourth-place finish.

Louisville New to the ACC this season, the Cardinals are projected to finish

Virginia Last season's ACC regular season and tournament champs are projected to end 2014-15 in fourth.

Syracuse The Orange are projected to finish the 2014-15 season fifth in their second season in the ACC.

KEY ARRIVALS

Wings Justin Jackson and Theo Pinson, along with guard Joel Berry II, make up North Carolina's No. 6 ranked recruiting class. The three players each bring shooting ability to the team and were ranked No. 11, No. 17 and No. 27, respectively, in the 2014 class according to Rivals.

Joel Berry II The 6-foot point guard was the Florida Gatorade Player of the Year three times.

Justin Jackson The 6-foot-8 Texas wing was a McDonald's All-American and a five-star recruit.

Theo Pinson The 6-foot-6 wing from Greensboro led his high school to two consecutive 3-A state titles.

COMPILED BY GRACE RAYNOR, CARLOS COLAZZO, BRENDAN MARKS

Media

OKAFOR

Jahlil Okafor The five-star Chicago native was named co-MVP of the McDonald's All-American game.

The 6-foot-11 freshman center out of Chicago was overwhelmingly named the ACC's Preseason Rookie of the Year Wednesday in Charlotte.

Of the 65 votes that were cast, the 2014 Morgan Wootten National High School Player of the Year racked up 62 of them. Okafor also received 15 votes for the Preseason Player of the Year.

MARCUS PAIGE PRESEASON P.O.Y.

Marcus Paige Amongst his accolades, Paige was named the ACC's Most Improved Player last season.

The 2014 2nd-team All-American Paige was named the ACC's Preseason Player of the Year Wednesday in Charlotte.

Paige is listed as the top point guard in the nation by ESPN.com and Sporting

As a sophomore, the lowa native averaged a team-high 17.5 points per game, good for fourth in the ACC. He also led the ACC in free throw percentages, shooting 91 percent from the line. Paige received 33 first-place votes Wednesday, more than double the number secondplace finisher Montrezl Harrell tallied.

KEY DEPARTURES

Forward James Michael McAdoo and shooting guard Leslie McDonald are the key departures for the Tar Heels. The two players were second and third respectively in scoring for the team last year. McAdoo specialized in the paint,

while McDonald made 43

3-point shots — good for second on the team.

James Michael McAdoo He averaged 14.2 points per game as a junior before leaving for the NBA.

Leslie McDonald After a nine-game suspension to start the 2013 season, he returned to average 10.4 points a game.

At ACC Basketball Media Day, the Tar Heels were picked to finish second

 $On\ Wednesday, senior\ writers$ Aaron Dodson and Grace Raynor headed to Charlotte for the ACC's annual Operation Basketball event. where two players and the head coach from each conference team were available for interviews.

The North Carolina men's basketball team sent juniors Brice Johnson and Marcus Paige, in addition to Roy Williams, who enters his 12th year at the helm of the program.

Johnson, held down the fort solo during the morning players' session, while Paige stayed in Chapel Hill to complete an exam in State and Local Government, a class requirement for Journalism students.

Johnson finished his sophomore campaign leading UNC in field goal percentage and blocks despite averaging just 19.4 minutes per game.

With the departure of veteran forward James Michael McAdoo to the NBA Draft, Johnson will certainly see increased minutes and could shift into a starting role. Johnson scored 10.3 points per game, and enters his junior year nearly 40 pounds heavier than he was when he first came to Chapel Hill as a freshman. He's now hovering between 226 and 228 pounds at 6-foot-9, doing everything he can to become a healthier player in all aspects.

"Trying to do everything right and be in the weight room as much as I can. Do a lot of the little things and be as healthy as I can," Johnson said.

Upon his arrival in Charlotte around 5:30 p.m., the point guard Paige was informed that his 17.5 points per game during his sophomore year had helped boost him to winning the conference's Preseason Player of the Year honor.

"It feels pretty good, I guess,"

Paige said. "I hope that means it can translate into some wins."

But something else was on his

"I see they picked us second in the conference," he said. "We have goals of finishing higher than that, if you guys can read between the lines on that. We really want to win the conference this year."

sports@dailytarheel.com

DTH PICKS OF THE WEEK

The DTH sports staff and one celebrity guest compete to pick the winners of the biggest ACC and national college football games each week.

Well, it's been a lot of the same for the picks man. You'll get there." crew this past week.

Sports Editor Grace Raynor continues to lead the pack — as she has since week one — and Assistant Sports Editor Brendan Marks is still in last place.

Apparently this week though, Marks realized how far behind he was.

As he walked into the office and looked at the results from last week this is what happened:

Marks: "Sweet guys! Guess what!? Guys: "What?"

Marks: "I went 8-1 in picks last week! I only missed the Ole Miss-LSU game!" Guys: "Ummm... you do know that you're still in last place... right?" Marks: "What? But I went 8-1."

Guys: "Yeah, you're still in last place. Eleven games out of first place to be exact, and the guest picker even has a two-game lead on you. But keep up the good work

Marks: *Sighs.* Marks: *Copies Patty J's picks*

Speaking of Patty J, the Assistant Sports Editor is currently in a contested three-way battle for second place, along with Aaron "Upset" Dodson and Daniel "Too-tall" Wilco.

Second place could easily be just one person next week though, with all three of these pickers taking different strategies.

True to his nickname, Dodson is taking a plethora of upsets — he's the only picker to take West Virginia over TCU and Utah over ASU.

Patty J and Wilco's picks only differ with one game: Auburn at Ole Miss. Patty is crying War Eagle! And Wilco is being a Rebel.

Another common trend this week is with all of the DTH writers — with the exception of Carlos "Los" Collazo — continuing to pick UNC. despite a tough challenge down in Miami. Los and guest picker Harold Gutmann are the only pickers who haven't started chuqging the Kool-Aid.

Harold Gutmann is this week's quest picker. He covers North Carolina athletics for the

"Have you seen Duke Johnson run the football?" Los said one afternoon. "And have you seen UNC tackle? Yeah I didn't think so.

Gutmann is a Duke alum and UNC beat writer for the (Durham) Herald-Sun. Last season, Gutmann went a perfect 8-0 during the last week of the season for the guest pickers, clinching first place in the process.

Virginia Tech

Georgia Tech

TCU

Auburn

Kansas State

UCLA

Pat Brendan Hard James Marks Gutm 48-21 33-27 37-2 UNC UNC Miai Duke Duke Duk

Virginia Tech

Georgia Tech

TCU

Auburn

Kansas State

UCLA

ASU

Daniel Grace Aaron Carlos Raynor Dodson Wilco Collazo Record to date 52-17 48-21 48-21 46-23 Miami UNC at Miami UNC UNC UNC Duke at Pitt Duke Duke Duke Duke Boston College at Virginia Tech Virginia Tech Virginia Tech Virginia Tech Virginia Tech Virginia at Georgia Tech Georgia Tech Georgia Tech Georgia Tech Georgia Tech TCŪ at West Virginia TCU West Virginia TCU TCU Auburn at Ole Miss Ole Miss Auburn Ole Miss Auburn Oklahoma State at Kansas State Kansas State Kansas State Kansas State Kansas State Arizona at UCLA Arizona UCLA UCLA Arizona Utah at Arizona State Utah ASU

(Durham) Herald-Sun.

"That's not exactly the best combination for the Heels."

You didn't really think we'd let him go last again, did you?

Harold
Gutmann
37-23
Miami
Duke
Virginia Tech
Georgia Tech
TCU
Auburn
Kansas State
UCLA
ASU

Tar Heels' hopes rely on tempo

By Aaron Dodson Senior Writer

Marquise Williams' favorite word might be tempo. The word is typically a noun. Definition: The rate of speed of motion or activity; pace. Sometimes, Williams describes the noun form of the word, explaining the tempo with which an opposing team plays.

After Tuesday's practice, reporters asked the redshirt junior quarterback about the tempo the North Carolina football team (4-4, 2-2 ACC)

SEE FOOTBALL, PAGE 8

THE LOWDOWN ON SATURDAY'S GAME

North Carolina at Miami

5-3, 2-2 ACC

UNC front

seven vs. Miami

rush

UNC

secondary

vs. Miami

seven vs.

UNC rush

12:30 p.m. Sun Life Stadium Broadcast: ACC Network

HEAD-TO-HEAD

4-4, 2-2 ACC

Duke Johnson leads Miami's rushing attack, which is ranked No. 45 in the nation, with 7.5 yards per pass Miami front Miami QB Brad Kaaya has a 153 passer rating. No EDGE: Miami Miami has been solid against the Marquise Williams can pose a worst secondaries (No. 116) and Miami secondary vs.

This is the strength of both teams. UNC throws for 296.9 yards per game, but Miami has the No. 9 secondary in the country. EDGE: Push

The Bottom Line — Miami 38, North Carolina 31

SOUTHERN SEASON Gourmet Marketplace, Cooking School, and Restaurant. A UNC Tradition Since 1975.

Cookbook Signing: Mad for Muffins: 70 Amazing Recipes from Savory to Sweet with Jean Anderson

Saturday, Nov. 1 | 2 – 4 p.m. | FREE In her new book, the legendary Jean Anderson turns her incredible talents to muffins.

Sheri Castle Day Launching The Southern Living Community Cookbook

Sunday, Nov. 2 | 12 – 4 p.m. | FREE Help us celebrate the launch of Chef Sheri Castle's new cookbook at our party in her honor!

Beer Extravaganza

Saturday, Nov. 8 | 2 – 8 p.m.

$8 - $15 per person Love beer? Then you'll love Bee

Love beer? Then you'll love Beer Extravaganza! Sample the best from local and national craft breweries and cideries, enjoy live music and more. $8 in advance, $10 at the door. Afterwards, move to the exclusive party on Weathervane's patio for more live music and, of course, more beer. Entry includes your first pint of beer or cider and an appetizer! $12 in advance, $15 at the door. Visit: http://goo.gl/hNTY21

Pick up our Holiday Menu when you're in the store. We can help make this season's celebrations memorable!

201 S. Estes Drive, Chapel Hill | University Mall (877) 929-7133 | 🚺 💟 📵 | southernseason.com

DTH/HANNAH ROSEN

Members of the Carolina Indian Circle raised awareness about culturally offensive Halloween costumes in the Pit on Wednesday.

Students protest costume ignorance

By Zhai Yun TanSenior Writer

Junior Shannon Ross was stunned when she arrived at Franklin Street on Halloween last year.

She saw people dressed in Native American costumes with their faces painted red, running around in circles and ululating.

CSLPlasma.com

As a member of the student organization Carolina Indian Circle, Ross said she was offended — which led her to participate in the organization's campaign against culturally insensitive costumes this week.

"My culture is not my costume" is a campaign that the Carolina Indian Circle has organized for two years. Members of the organization held up signs in the Pit to raise awareness and incite discussion.

"It's trying to raise awareness for cultural appropriation not just with Native Americans," Ross said. "We're not trying to make people feel bad. We just want to let people know that they could be offending someone and they probably shouldn't do it."

Senior Cheyna Elliott, who is part of the Carolina Indian Circle committee, said the campaign on Monday received good responses. The group put up posters with slogans such as "My culture is not a costume," "We are not Pocahontas" and "Cultural appropriation is not OK."

"We had quite a few people come up and ask questions," Elliott said. "A lot of people just don't know that it persists."

Common Native
American-themed costumes are the Disney character
Pocahontas and the native warrior regalia, both of which Ross said she saw frequently on Halloween. Some of the regalia are only worn by Native Americans during cultural events like the powwow.

"What people don't realize is the powwow dances are sacred and you don't just run around doing it," Ross said.

She said she accepts people dressing up in another culture's costumes if they are not ignorant and they behave appropriately.

"I would just suggest that if you are going to dress up as anything of a different culture to not disrespect it," Ross said. "If it's a costume, let it be a costume and don't act a part of it."

But Carolina Indian Circle faculty adviser Marcus Collins said people — including Native Americans — shouldn't dress up in traditional costumes for inappropriate events.

"If I wanted to wear my regalia and attend a cultural festivity like a powwow, or if I'm going to a classroom because I want to bring awareness, then that's a different thing," Collins said.

"But to take on somebody's culture and make it part of a costume in an event where you're not even creating awareness is just wrong."

Collins said he finds dressing up as Disney's Pocahontas disrespectful to Native American culture.

"It depends on what's your philosophy in thinking that Pocahontas, the way Disney has romanticized it, if it's appropriate or not," Collins said. "For me, I don't think it is."

arts@dailytarheel.com

UP TO THE 1 THO TWO MONTHS RENT FREE!!

LIVINGCHAPEL HILL.COM

Candidates opine on proposed N.C. constitutional amendment

THE AMENDMENT

If passed, the constitutional amendment would allow defendants to waive a trial by jury and choose to only have a bench trial made up of judges.

WHERE DO YOU

STAND ON THE ISSUE?

WHAT ARE THE

ADVANTAGES AND

DISADVANTAGES

OF ALLOWING

DEFENDANTS TO

WAIVE A JURY

TRIAL?

Ellie Kinnaird is a former N.C. senator.

I'm actually going to vote for it, but not many people know about it... The accused have a right to a fair and speedy trial, but this amendment does not apply to capital cases. With a bench trial, if a person has no prior convictions, they will probably get a lesser sentencing. A prosecutor will charge several things can get confused and in any single crime not be as judicial to up the ante, and or as careful as a when the jury sees branch judge should those things added be. While the jury up, it looks like a tradition is a great one, I really believe, vicious crime. A judge is more objective and in terms of efficiency knows the law very and justice, the well; whereas, juries defendant would are more apt to be be better off with a swayed by the viciousbench trial than a ness of the crime. jury trial.

Jim Woodall is the Orange County district attorney.

I'm opposed to

When you have

community hearing

that case. I think it's a real cornerstone of our criminal justice

victims of violent crimes, I want

a jury from the system. I trust

I think it's a great addition to the judicial system. I think juries are incredibly perceptive. They can see things that lawyers and judges can't see sometimes, but they don't understand the law as well as a judge, and I believe that juries can create issues that

Bill Massengale

is a law partner at Massengale & Ozer.

juries, and they increase confidence don't exist in cases. in the courts. Juries sometimes

The idea with the jury is that you have people from the community that participate in and have a voice in what happens. There are lots of cases where you need that, and I'm concerned by whatever mechanism that community voice is taken away.

'Angels' provide support to young cancer patients

Ashton's Angels was founded in honor of a former UNC student.

By Olivia Bane Staff Writer

When Ashton Miller was still alive, battling cancer while going to UNC, she didn't have a support group.

But the organization founded in her memory, Ashton's Angels, will begin providing support for young adults with cancer after it is approved as an official student group, which organizers expect to happen in the next few weeks. Miller died two months before her graduation date in the spring of 2010 after enduring embryonal rhabdomyosarcoma, a rare form of childhood cancer, for three years.

"When you're in college and you have cancer, there aren't a lot of people you can talk to about it. It's not something you can talk to your friends about," Judy Miller, Ashton Miller's mom, said.

Judy Miller said there are support groups for children and older adults, but being a cancer patient in college is particularly difficult because a student is no longer a child but not yet considered an adult. She added that her daughter's room at N.C. Children's Hospital was decorated with Disney characters, indicating that the hospital is geared toward much younger patients.

"There are Carolina stu-

are getting treatment and fly under the radar," said sophomore Elizabeth Grady, president of Ashton's Angels at UNC. "They can be underloading classes, and people don't even know that. We want them to feel like a part of the Carolina community." Grady said programs like the Make-A-Wish Foundation and other groups provide services for children, and many support groups exist for adults, but college students don't fit into either age group.

"We want to help college students from ages 18 to 23 because there really isn't funding for this age group," said Annie Scheffer, UNC vice president of Ashton's Angels and a member of Ashton Miller's sorority, Zeta Tau Alpha.

A group including Ashton Miller's parents, friends and a favorite teacher first started the organization at Western Guilford High School in Greensboro, which Ashton Miller attended.

"I had a long conversation with Ashton a few months before she passed, and she wanted some good to come out of all this," said retired Western Guilford history teacher Brett Stell. "I helped start the organization to honor Ashton."

Until the UNC chapter began, Ashton's Angels had done all of its work at Western Guilford, doing projects on art, history and travel some of Miller's passions.

Over the last four or five years, Ashton's Angels raised about $40,000 to provide Western Guilford students with scholarships to go on a student trip to Europe that Stell led every other summer. The group also raised money to buy supplies for the art department at the high school.

"When you're in college and you have cancer, there aren't a lot of people you can talk to about it. It's not something you can talk to your friends about."

Judy Miller, Ashton Miller's mother

We want to bring this program to UNC because this is the place Ashton loved," Grady said.

university@dailytarheel.com

VOTE EARLY

HILLEL HOUSE CAMERON AVE. OPPOSITE CAROLINA INN TODAY, FRIDAY NOON - 6 PM TOMORROW, SATURDAY 9 AM - 1 PM

Why Vote?

Threats to UNC. Threats to your abortion rights. Threats to your health insurance.

Recommendations:

US Senate: Kay Hagan US House of Representatives: David Price (District 4) or Laura Field (District 6) NC Senate: Valerie Foushee (District 23)

NC House: Verla Insko (District 56) or Graig Meyer (District 50) Orange County Board of Commissioners:

Mia Burroughs NC Supreme Court Chief Justice: Mark Martin NC Supreme Court Associate Justice: Sam Ervin IV NC Supreme Court Associate Justice: Robin Hudson NC Supreme Court Associate Justice: Cheri Beasley NC Court of Appeals Judge: John Arrowood NC Court of Appeals Judge: Lucy Inman

NC Court of Appeals Judge: Mark Davis

Paid for by Charles van der Horst, MD

Duke Young Adult ADD/ADHD & Nicotine Study

A new research study is recruiting healthy adults between the ages of 18-25 who meet the following criteria: Diagnosed with ADD/ADHD or have ADD/ADHD symptoms • Nonsmoker • Have not used other tobacco products in the past three years ullet Not currently taking psychiatric medications, except those for ADD/ADHD

If you meet these criteria, you may be eligible to participate.

Compensation provided.

Please call Aruna at 919-681-0048 for more information.

Or please visit www.trianglesmokingstudies.com

DukeMedicine

Pro00037792

COMPETE FOR A

$1000 CASH PRIZE

LEADERSHIP AWARD

Sign up by 11pm today: http://palchallenge.web.unc.edu/

FROM PAGE 5

will likely get to taste in a road matchup with the University of Miami Hurricanes (5-3, 2-2) Saturday.

"It's the Miami Hurricanes," Williams said. "They run like rabbits."

Most often than not, though, Williams uses tempo as a verb. He did this recalling UNC's 23-27 loss to Miami in 2013. "Last year they showed they're not very good with tempo — when we're tempoing them," he said. "That's a lot of teams. When we get a first down, get going and we tempo, a lot of people tend to start putting their hands on their knees, substituting late, getting 12 men on the field, if we continue to go."

For UNC to pick up its third consecutive win, Williams believes it will take that tempo. This means UNC must start fast from its first possession of the game, though the team has struggled to do so all season. In eight games, UNC has only scored three times on its first offensive drive — two touchdowns and one field goal. The remaining five opening possessions? Four punts and one fumble.

A week ago, on the road against Virginia, the UNC offense didn't score until its third drive of the game.

"We gotta create our own energy," Williams said. "Last week, we came out too flat ... We found a way to keep going and kept it going, kept it going. But this week, we're going to try to jump on them early."

If the Tar Heel offense starts as slow as it did against UVa, it will find itself in quite of an early hole in Miami, Coach Larry Fedora says especially given the speed and experience of Miami's defense.

"(Miami is) really good on defense," Fedora said. "They've got seven seniors over there. they're playing hard, they're doing all the good. But we have to take care of business. We have to get our tempo going, so that we can continue to move the chains."

Sophomore wide receiver Mack Hollins has noticed the lasting effect a fast start from the UNC offense has on opposing defenses.

"That gives us a sense of comfort that we're gonna be good the rest of the game," Hollins said. "If we can get an early lead, since we play

"If we can get an early lead, since we play so fast, teams are dead by the fourth quarter."

Mack Hollins, Sophomore wide receiver

so fast, teams are dead by the fourth quarter."

Williams, who leads the ACC in passing yards with 2,035, will face the nation's ninth-ranked pass defense in Miami. It's a unit sprinkled with speed from the defensive line to the secondary. The UNC quarterback's plan, though, is not to slow the game down and make the Hurricanes think. Rather, it's to match speed with speed.

"They're big, and they're fast, and they compete," he said. "We're gonna do the same thing. We're gonna go down and compete."

Against Miami, Williams wants to see how well his offense can "tempo."

sports@dailytarheel.com

DTH Classifieds

Line Classified Ad Rates

Private Party (Non-Profit) Commercial (For-Profit) 25 Words....... $20.00/week Extra words...25¢/word/day Extra words...25¢/word/day To Place a Line Classified Ad Log Onto www.dailytarheel.com/classifieds or Call 919-962-0252

DTH office is open Mon-Fri 8:30am-5:00pm

Deadlines

Line Ads: Noon, one business day prior to publication

Display Classified Ads: 3pm, two business  $BR = Bedroom \cdot BA = Bath \cdot mo = month \cdot hr = hour \cdot wk = week \cdot W/D = washer/dryer \cdot OBO = or best offer \cdot AC = air conditioning \cdot w/ = with \cdot LR = living room \cdot BA = bedroom \cdot BA = be$ days prior to publication

Announcements

EXTRAS: Box: $1/day · Bold: $3/day

The AIDS Course

AIDS: Principles, Practices, Politics ring, Wednesdays, 5:45-7:00pm One Credit • Pass Fail Enroll in Public Health 420 Section 1 (Undergrad) or Section 2 (Graduate An hour of credit for a lifetime of knowledge!

Announcements

NOTICE TO ALL DTH CUSTOMERS

Deadlines are NOON one business day prior to publication for classified ads. We publish Monday thru Friday when classes are in session. A university holiday is a DTH holiday too (i.e. this affects deadlines). We reserve the right to reject, edit, or reclassify any ad. Please check your ad on the first run date, as we are only responsible for errors on the first day of the ad Acceptance of ad copy or prepayment does not imply agreement to publish an ad. You may stop your ad at any time, but NO REFUNDS or credits for stopped ads will be provided. No advertising for housing or employment, in accordance with federal law, can state a prefer ence based on sex, race, creed, color, religion, national origin, handicap, marital status.

SNOWSHOE LIFT TICKETS. 3/$129. 11-1 and 11-2 at Alpine Ski Center. Also, pick up $12 tickets to Matchstick Productions' "Days of My Youth" and then a ski film to be shown 11-16 at

Child Care Wanted

BABYSITTER WANTED:

Seeking UNC student to care for our active 3 year-old son in Carrboro, mostly Tuesday and Thursday afternoons 2-5pm and some weekends. $10-12/hr. lszpir@nc.rr.com.

EVENING BABYSITTER needed for 7 year-old daughter in our home outside Chapel Hill. Thursday nights 5:30-9:30pm, with occasional other nights, weekends also available. Must have own car, references and like dogs. $12/ hr. Respond to babysitterreply@gmail.com.

PART-TIME NANNY WANTED NEAR UNC. We are looking for an active, responsible nanny to well behaved kids M-F close to campus. Must help with light laundry, meals, picking up preschooler (in our car) and tidying up. Please email Bryan: bhunt at nc.rr.com.

For Rent

FAIR HOUSING

ALL REAL ESTATE AND RENTAL advertising in this newspaper is subject to the Federal Fair Housing Act of 1968 which makes it illegal to advertise "any preference, limitation, or dis-crimination based on race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status, or national origin, or an intention to make any such preference, limitation, or discrimination," This newspaper will not knowingly accept any advertising which is in violation of the law. Our readers are hereby informed that all dwellings advertised in this newspaper are available on an equal opportunity basis in accordance with the law. To complain of discrimination, call the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development housing discrimination hotline: 1-800-669-9777.

APARTMENT FOR RENT! Fabulous location, less than 1 mile from campus off Franklin Street. 2BR/1BA, on busline in lovely wooded neighborhood. W/D, central air, dishwasher, yearly lease, water provided, pets OK with deposit. Available January 1. $800/mo.

For Rent

For Rent

For Rent

PEACEFUL OFF SOUTH COLUMBIA NEAR UNC HOSPITALS GREAT HOUSE-MATE POTENTIAL FOR GRAD/MEDICAL STUDENTS

3 BEDROOMS, 2 1/2 BATHS

just $1,700/month plus utilities! January 1, 2-15 to July 31, 2015

earlier occupancy possible

Wood floors throughout. French doors onto large deck atop woodsy ravine. Central air, woodstove in living room. Gas stove; fridge, walk-in pantry. Washer and dryer. Two large bedrooms share full bath and half-bath Third bedroom is spacious with sitting area & office alcove, large bathroom. absolutely no smoking • good rental history essential

Sharon Fowler Inc • 919-240-5662

www.SharonFowlerInc.com for photos

For Rent

FOR RENT: Grad students. Mobile home Peaceful, country setting. Old Hwy 86. 2BR, cable, well, W/D. 2 miles to Park and Ride. $500/mo. +utilities. 919.967.6897.

For Sale

2011 FORD FIESTA SE. blue, automatic, like new, all power, 20,500 miles, no dings, 36-39 MPG. Sync and Sirius radio. $11,250. Vincent, BEAUTIFUL LOT in prime location. Wooded with stream. Adjacent Moses Cone property, off Blue Ridge Parkway. Near to downtown Blowing Rock. 1.29 acres, $135,000. Contact Cody Hawkins, 828-320-3268.

Help Wanted

CLUB MANAGER for neighborhood swim and racket club. Responsibilities include managing staff; overseeing recreational programs; maintaining swimming pool, clubhouse facilities and grounds; managing membership; and all office admin. Life guard and CPO certificates are highly desirable. Hours are flexible part-time in off season, full-time May thru August. Send cover letter, resume and 3 references to club.manager.sssrc@gmail.com by 11-15-14.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT, part-time, Look ing for an energetic person to join a growing physical therapy practice. Main responsibilities include filing insurance claims, collection tracking payments, calling insurance compa nies, scheduling, answering the phone, greeting clients when they enter the clinic. In addition, utilizing the Internet to modify WordPress based blog style website, online scheduling and billing systems, integration of social media like Facebook, Twitter and Instagram will be needed. www.experiencetheedge.com or call 919-493-1204.

SOFTWARE ENGINEER to work on enthusiastic team to help build ReadTheory.org. Must be proficient in JAVA, MVC, HTML, JS. Groovy/ Grails is a plus. Email support@readtheory.org or call 919-475-3740 for details.

GYMNASTICS INSTRUCTOR: Chapel Hill Gymnastics has part-time positions available for energetic, enthusiastic instructors. Applicants with knowledge of gymnastic terminology and progression skills preferred, must be available 2-4 days/wk. 3:30-7:30pm, weekends. Send a resume to margie@chapelhillgymnastics.com.

EDITOR needed to assist in management of online content for ReadTheory.org. Must have outstanding English language and computer skills. $18/hr. Part-time. 919-475-3740.

Place a Classified Today! dailytarheel.com/classifieds

www.millcreek-condos.com

Help Wanted

Help Wanted

Direct Support Professional

We are currently recruiting for enthusiastic and motivated individuals to work with children and adults with autism. A great opportunity for psychology and social work students!

Various shifts are available including weekends. $10.10/hr. More information and application available at

http://www.rsi-nc.org

Senior Clinical Psychologist

seeking a PhD lavel Clinical Psychologist for clinical cognitive assessment development and data review. Position will assist in developing and validating new test batteries, reviewing, analyzing and interpreting cognitive test data, and will oversee neurocognitive rater certification and data quality control for multi-site pharmaceutical company trials. The area of work will primarily be in Alzheimer's disease, aging, and schizophrenia. These clinical trials usually involve a large meeting of investigators and testers who require certification. Travel to US or international meetings is expected. Familiarity with cognitive assessment is essential. Requirements: Doctoral degree in Clinical Psychology, neurosciences or related field Demonstrated experience (in clinical and/or research settings) in working with adult psychiatric populations; experience with Alzheimer's Disease, MCI, Schizophrenia, Depression, Multiple Sclerosis and neurodegenerative disorders. Clinical experience in conduction assessments and entire international provisions are species and in the provision of the

Help Wanted

PART-TIME HOURS: Assistant needed Tu/Th 12-5pm for helping 22 year-old male quadriplegic student. Dependability a must. Duties include driving and assistance with meals, homework, getting to classes and other physical activities. Ideal position for future health professional. debrarmann@aol.com, 919-414-0494.

HOUSE CLEANING: kitchen, organizing closets, drawers, shelves, etc. Student preferred. 4 miles from campus. Pay $12/hr. Rebecca, 919-967-0138

TEACHING ASSISTANTS: Harvest Learning Center is hiring part-time and full-time teaching assistants to work with toddlers to preschoolers. Will train but must have work ethic and a love for working with children. Send resumes to harvestdirectors@harvestlearningcenter.com. MODELS WANTED: Fine art figure photographer is seeking models. Will pay and will share best pictures with his model. www.peters-pics. com. Call Peter, 919-402-0304.

Lost & Found

LOST: CREST RING Oct. 17, between Top of the Hill and McDade St. Gold family crest ring with engraving of shield, spear, and banner across the top. If returned $100 reward. Call (336) 813-0622.

Personals

FREDDY, before we play beer pong and party, lets take the AIDS Course together! AIDS Course, Spring, Wednesdays, 5:45-7pm, one credit. Enroll in Public Health 420, Section 1 (Undergrad) or Section 2 (Graduate). Yours

LOST & FOUND ADS RUN FREE IN DTH CLASSIFIEDS!

Travel/Vacation

BAHAMAS SPRING BREAK $189 for 5 DAYS. All prices include: Round trip luxury party cruise, accommodations on the island at your choice of 13 resorts. Appalachia Travel. www.BahamaSun.com, 800-867-5018.

Tutoring Wanted

CHEMISTRY TUTOR NEEDED! Looking for a UNC student to tutor a high school student in Honors Chemistry 1-2 days/wk. Please call or email Katherine, kclarkrealtor@gmail.com. Thanks! 919-636-0151.

QUESTIONS About Classifieds? Call 962-0252

Volunteering

YMCA YOUTH VOLLEYBALL (October thru De-cember 2014) and BASKETBALL (January thru March 2015) are currently needed. Fall volleyball serves 4th-8th graders on Tu/Th nights. Winter basketball serves PreK-8th graders (Saturdays and weeknights for older divisions). Email: mike.meyen@YMCATriangle.org.

Did You Know

You can now place your DTH classified online at www.dailytarheel.com Click on "Classifieds"

HOROSCOPES

If October 31st is Your Birthday... Enliven the party this year. You're on fire with creativity and charisma. Apply it at work to rising demand... raise your rates especially after 12/23. Determine what you want and ask for it. Pursue seemingly-impossible dreams. Build long-term networks. Fun and romance rise to a new level

To get the advantage, check the day's rating: 10 is the easiest day, 0 the most challenging Aries (March 21-April 19) Today is an 8 - Take off from work early if you can. A temporary setback changes plans. Discipline is required. It just takes longer to get there. Don't touch your savings. Stay close to home and uncover a family secret. Taurus (April 20-May 20) Today is an 8 – Keep a steady course while cutting expenses. Friends share resources and connections. Grab a great deal, and make

do with something you find. Adapt stuff you have to the purpose you need fulfilled.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Today is a 9 – Unleash your artistic creativity Practice your skills for an epic adventure. Consider a female's differing opinion, and incorporate what works. Do a good job and gain respect. Don't test physical limits. Your message clicks.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Today is an 8 – Challenge old assumptions. Be gracious to a troll. Indulge a creative fantasy without breaking the bank. Discussion clarifies the essential points. Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) factors. In a moment of scarcity, listen and learn. It's not a good time to travel. Invite friends to your house. Pile up provisions. Work out practical details. Make it a pot luck. Play together. Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Today is a 9 – Handle chores and responsibilities before dashing off. Glamorize the invitation. Don't travel or try a new

Treats at home spark into laughter and mysteries unveiled. Get into the spirit.

trick... trusted methods and flavors satisfy.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Today is an 8 – Family fun doesn't need to get expensive. Cut costs by improvising and making what you need at home. Prioritize fun, delicious tidbits and entertaining control to the cost of the co conversation. Invent a mysterious back story. Choose characters, and meet new friends. Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Today is a 7 – Have the party at your place. Heartfelt communications come easily. You can wait for what you want. Save up, if it's expensive. Talk it over, and come up with and decorate. Invite contribution

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Today is an 8 – Your creative comm get supercharged. Invent a message and a punchline. Business could interfere with oleasure. Keep loved ones informed. Hold out for the important things. Balance conflicting interests with straight talk. Aim to have it all.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today is a 9 – Ensure that the job gets done. Only delegate to trusted partners. There's profitable work requiring your attention. Reward a productive day by spending the evening with friends and a light heart. Unveil

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Today is a 9 – Handle professional obligations, and reschedule less urgent calls. Answer the door! Creative juices flow, and a collaboration invigorates. Share resources, and re-purpose stuff you have. Play a part that you've always

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) Today is a 7 – Should you stay or go? Peace and quiet seem so enticing. Postpone travel, and settle into some domestic bliss. Get comfortable in private, and talk it over, Invite someone special to help decide. (c) 2014 TRIBUNE MEDIA SERVICES, INC

★ ALL IMMIGRATION MATTERS **★

Work Visas • Green Cards • Citizenship

REDUCED FEE FOR FACULTY & STUDENTS! NC Board Certified Attorney Specialist LISA BRENMAN · 919-932-4593 · visas-us.com

Closest Chiropractor to Campus! 9249-83552 Dr. Chas Gaertner, DC

UNC Community SERVICE DIRECTORY

DRUG and ALCOHOL OFFENSES Law Office of Daniel A. Hatley 919.200.0822 • dan@hatleylawoffice.com ing UNC Athletes, Students & Staff Well Adjusted + r

Unitarian Universalist CAMPUS MINISTRY AT UNC MEETS 5-6 PM THURSDAYS IN THE UNION CONTACT: UNC.UUS@GMAIL.COM Unitarian Universalism: Whoever You are, Whomever You Love, You are Welcome

www.c3huu.org/campus-ministry.html

Religious Directory

gathering church. Sundays at 10:30am Creekside Elementary 5321 Ephesus Church Rd, Durham, NC 27707 allgather.org 919.797.2884

STARPOINT STORAGE

NEED STORAGE SPACE?

Hwy 15-501 South & Smith Level Road (919) 942-6666

Presbyterian Campus Ministry jrogers@upcch.org • 919-967-2311 110 Henderson St., Chapel Hill

lovechapelhill.com

Thursdays Fellowship dinner & program 5:45-8 PM · Weekly small groups

Sunday Worship at our six local Partner Churches • Trips to the NC mountains & coast as well as annual spring break mission opportunitie www.uncpcm.com

www.journeync.org /188889

Our Faith is over 2,000 years old

Multi-cultural • Mutli-racial

Uniting - Just Peace Church.

-College Students Welcome-

Coffee Hour & Classes at 10:00 a.m.

Worship at 8:45am & 11:00am

NEWMAN Catholic Student Center Parah Our thinking is not God is still speaking Mass Schedule United Church of Chapel Hill: Tues-Fri 5pm Saturday 5:15pm Welcoming & Affirming Open to EVERYONE Sunday 9am, 11am, 7pm Social Justice • EQUALITY

919.929.3730 newman-chapelhill.org 218 Pittsboro Street

Chapel Hill, NC 27516

EPISCOPAL CAMPUS MINISTRY Join us for dinner & fellowship! Tuesdays at 5:30 p.m

BINKLEY BAPTIST CHURCH "All Are Welcome!" Worship 11am 1712 Willow Drive (next to University Mall) Chapel Hill 919-942-4964

binkleychurch.org

Council talks Obey Creek

By Trent Hollandsworth Staff Writer

Chapel Hill Town Council members and residents met Thursday night to discuss the impact of the proposed Obey Creek development on traffic and transit.

This was one of 10 special meetings about Obey Creek planned for the next five months.

Sabrina Oliver, spokeswoman for the town, said the meetings were requested by the public and the council. They are all close together to front-load the schedule, with the possibility to cancel later meetings.

David Bonk, long range planning manager for Chapel Hill, said there is a potential conflict between the town and the state over U.S. Highway 15-501.

In order to accommodate the development, the town might want to make changes to the road, which they cannot do without the state's compliance.

Another concern is bike and pedestrian transportation at Obey Creek.

The Bicycle Alliance of Chapel Hill wants there to be a bike lane near 15-501 from Dogwood acres to Mt. Carmel Church Road.

They also suggested that a non-motor crossway could be more economical than widening the James Taylor Bridge, which is a trouble spot for bicyclists.

Bonk offered the idea of an extension of a planned off-road path to Mt. Carmel Church Road to make it easier for bicyclists to get to Obey Creek.

However, doing this might require diverting funds from the construction of a greenway at Obey Creek. Councilwoman Maria Palmer voiced concern about delaying the greenway. "A family could bike around the development in a big loop," Palmer said. "The development needs recreational facilities."

Craig Scheffler, project manager for HNTB Corporation, presented the traffic predictions for the development.

Scheffler said some of side roads near Obey Creek are predicted to be inefficient, but 15-501 itself would not be congested. The traffic on the northern parts of town would not be affected by the traffic from the development.

Regarding transit, there are two current routes that would pass through the area.

Transit is predicted to reach capacity on the NS route during peak hours, which might prevent some bus riders from being able to use it..

The council discussed the idea of a new bus route. Councilwoman Sally Greene said it is an option that should be looked into.

"I would like to see an analysis of a new bus route to Obey Creek," Greene said.

Palmer offered a suggestion of a bus that loops around the city, so Carrboro and Obev Creek could be connected without stopping on the UNC campus.

Chapel Hill resident Susana Dancy said the town should evaluate the current transit system capacity.

"You need to come up with a plan for Southern Chapel Hill," Dancy said. "Road capacity is a public

city@dailytarheel.com

Movie Showtimes for Week 10/31-11/6 All Movies $4.00 • Closed Monday

THIS IS WHERE I LEAVE YOU  ${\mathbb R}$

THE SKELETON TWINS  ${\mathbb R}$ at: 4:40, 7:10, 9:10 • Sun: 4:40, 7:1 Tue: 7:10 • Wed & Thu: 7:10, 9:10

GUARDIANS OF THE GALAXY PG-13

The Varsity Theatre 123 E. Franklin Street, Chapel Hill • 967-8665 www.varsityonfranklin.com

at: 9:20 • Sun: 7:00 • Wed & Thu: 9:20

www.townofchapelhill.org/halloween

Planning begins for natural gas pipeline

Bv Caroline Lamb

A project to construct a major natural gas pipeline running into North Carolina is entering its planning stages, but environmental advocates sav it will slow the state's movement toward renewable energy.

Virginia-based energy company Dominion is teaming up with three power companies, including Duke Energy, to build a 550-milelong pipeline from West Virginia to Robeson County, N.C. The Atlantic Coast Pipeline LLC, which would cost between $4.5 and $5 billion, would transport natural gas from the Marcellus and Utica shales.

Dominion plans to use the pipeline to increase the natural gas supply in West Virginia, Virginia and North Carolina.

Frank Mack, a spokesman for Dominion, said the pipeline will bring a reliable source of energy to North Carolina and allow for less reliance on coal.

Mack said the pipeline would support about 4,400 jobs during construction and bring $12 million of economic activity to the state by 2019.

David Rogers, field director at Environment North Carolina, said that while natural gas is cleaner than coal, it also slows the movement toward renewable energy.

"We have the technology right now to get our energy from things like the wind and the sun that are drastically better for the environment and give us a fuel source that will never run out," he said.

Richard Whisnant, a public law and policy professor in the UNC School of Government, said the pipeline leaves the transition to renewable energy in question.

"It will be interesting to see if this pipeline is built and others are built, how much that plays into the question of the utilities' commitment to support renewables," he said.

Mack said natural gas has half the carbon emissions of coal, and that bringing it to North Carolina and shutting down coal-fired plants will be beneficial for the environment.

Rogers said the process, which includes drilling, could negatively impact people and wildlife — if methane from natural gas is released into the air unburned, it is harmful.

Mack said Dominion employs safety measures, such as around-the-clock monitoring and, if the proposal is passed, emergency shutoff systems and natural gas detection devices at compressor stations.

Dominion is preparing to perform surveys on land along the route. The application to build will be sent to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission next summer after open houses are held at the beginning of the year.

If the application is accepted, construction will start in 2017.

Mack said 12 percent of people whose property Dominion wants to survey have declined.

Rogers said Environment North Carolina will help people living on the route learn their rights in terms of letting companies survey their property.

Whisnant said it could negatively affect the economy and

"I personally don't like the division of this all up into

'there's economic issues on the one side, and there's environment issues on the other," Whisnant said.

"They are all economic and environmental issues to me."

state@dailytarheel.com

Heard about Light Rail?

Drop into a public meeting for more information about the Durham-Orange

Meeting Dates & Locations:

Nov. 18

Light Rail Project

Durham Station

515 Pettigrew St. | Durham, 27701

Nov. 18 UNC Friday Center

4pm - 7pm

100 Friday Center Dr. | Chapel Hill, 27517

Nov. 19 Marriott/Spring Hill Suites at Patterson Place

4pm - 7pm5310 McFarland Rd. | Durham, 27707

Nov. 20 Hayti Heritage Center

804 Old Fayetteville St. | Durham, 27701

All public meetings are held in ADA accessible facilities. Any individual who requires special assistance in order to participate in a public meeting is urged to contact Triangle Transit at 1-800-816-7817 at least one week prior

Todas las reuniones públicas se llevan a cabo en las instalaciones de fácil acceso de ADA. Toda persona que necesite ayuda especial para poder participar en una reunión pública, debe ponerse en contacto con Triangle Transit al 1-800-816-7817 con al menos una semana de anticipación

HOUSING SEARCH

STARTS HERE

chapelhillstudenthousing.com

CHAPEL VIEW . CHAPEL RIDGE

4

Level: | 1 || 2 || 3 || 4

7 4 7 8 2 1 3 2 6 1 3 6 3 8 4 6 6 9

© 2014 The Mepham Group. All rights reserved

TRIBUNE

Complete the grid so each row, column and 3-by-3 box (in bold borders) contains

Solution to

	Thursday's puzzle
	7	9	4	5	6	8	2	1
_	 	2	3	4	7	9	8	5	,
9	5	6	8	1	2	3	9	4
_	4	3	9	2	1	5	6	7	1
/	2	8	1	7	3	6	5	9
	6	5	7	8	9	4	1	3	:
	3	4	2	9	8	1	7	6	;
	9	7	6	3	5	2	4	8
	Q	1	5	6	1	7	2	2

new woods-themed rotating show this weekend. See pg. 1 for story. every digit 1 to 9. Costume protests

The Carolina Indian Circle protested potentially racist Halloween costumes this week. See pg. 6 for story.

Statement differences Administrators' responses to scandal allegations conflict with report findings. See pg. 3 for graphic.

PlayMakers shows

PlayMakers opens its

Wainstein panel

A panel of students with varied backgrounds spoke about the Wainstein report findings. See pg. 3 for story.

Tar Heel Tickets

9

At what location is Bill Clinton joining Sen. Kay Hagan in Raleigh for a campaign event?

And remember to tell all your friends how much you #lovemydth.

Los Angeles Times Daily Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS 1 Common telenovela

theme 5 Travel needs for many 10 Lose, in a Vegas game 14 Amplify, in a way

15 Not available

17 *Media member with a curly tail? 19 Word with barn or storm

20 Sorceress jilted by Jason 21 "Not interested" 23 Seahawks' org.

25 *With 50-Across, travel guide that touts Oranjestad's worst hotels and restaurants?

26 "Time to split!" 30 Ore. setting 31 José __: frozen Mexican food brand 32 Sitar selections 34 Santa __ Mountains: coastal California range

38 *"Whatever you say, wise goddess!"? 42 In-land link? 43 Henie on the ice 44 Grammy-winning "We Are Young' band 45 Cybernotes

48 Six, for many 50 See 25-Across 54 "King Kong" studio 55 Franklin's note 56 "Cheers," e.g.

60 Qatari potentate

61 *Refrigerator on the front 22 Birth announcement lines? 65 In __ parentis 66 What a shin guard protects 67 Legendary galley school 69 How-to units 70 Actor Gosling

DOWN 1 Digital clock toggle 2 Squishy area

3 Didn't deny 4 Feel offended by 5 Itinerary word 6 India

7 Fashion designer Anna 8 Buzzing with activity 9 Close securely 10 Run of lousy luck 11 Threat to a WWII destroyer 12 Splash clumsily 13 Clipped 18 Trip to see the big game?

24 Climbing challenge 25 Subject for da Vinci 26 One may go into an empty net

27 Earthenware pot 28 Bluff betrayer 29 Words of disgust 33 Holiday song closer 35 S&L offering for homeowners 36 Word on the Great Seal of the United States

37 Novelist Grey 39 Shower harbinger 40 Cracked open 41 Have words with

46 Dept. head 47 Workout garb

(C)2014 Tribune Media Services, Inc

49 Beyond reasonable limits 50 Young wolf 51 One may be going around

52 Ready if required 53 Not turn away

57 Not right 58 Multigenerational tale 59 Suffix with Jumbo

62 Mount Rushmore figure, familiarly

63 Tang 64 Smallish batteries, and a hint to how the answers to starred clues are formed

The Daily Tar Heel

JENNY SURANE EDITOR, 962-4086 OR EDITOR@DAILYTARHEEL.COM HENRY GARGAN OPINION EDITOR, OPINION@DAILYTARHEEL.COM SAM SCHAEFER ASSISTANT OPINION EDITOR

KERN WILLIAMS COLIN KANTOR

Opinion

PETER VOGEL

KIM HOANG

Jenny Surane Editor's Notes

Senior business journalism major from Cornelius.

Email: editor@dailytarheel.com

Hold power up to the light

hen we first broke the news of nine people who will face disciplinary action from the University for their involvement in the fake paper class scheme, my first thought wasn't, "Let's get this story up."

And those who know me know that's weird. Instead of thinking about The Daily Tar Heel being first and being right — both things that I love my first thought was a journalism commandment:

"Afflict the comfortable. Comfort the afflicted."

The employees facing disciplinary action are just a list of mid-level employees - people who were obviously complicit in the scandal but didn't truly have the power to be ringleaders.

Somehow, the University seems comfortable with the knowledge that a couple of athletic counselors, a secretary and professors had the ability to perpetuate massive academic fraud — more comfortable than it would feel acknowledging the reality that mixing a top research university with a Division I athletics department is not always a good idea. Perhaps that's why the University hasn't done that yet.

Students from the Black Student Movement and The Real Silent Sam Coalition stood on the steps of South Building Wednesday and admonished the University for placing the blame for the scandal squarely on the shoulders of the Department of African, African American and Diaspora Studies. This, they said, was a continuation of an age-old tradition of denying legitimacy to people of color and their history at predominantly white institutions like

Students were right to feel outrage. Professors from the Progressive Faculty Network were right to bark back at the University and media outlets. In a way, that protest was able to do something this newspaper and many others haven't done enough of lately.

It comforted the afflicted. In reality, this could have happened to any department. Any secretary could have been coerced by the power and influence of college athletics. And while Deborah Crowder and Julius Nyang'oro should have to pay for their misdeeds, they aren't the reason this scandal happened.

And blaming newspapers for covering academic misconduct only lets the University off the hook.

Basketball coach Roy Williams might not have known everything about paper classes — of which his players enrolled in about 167 — but he knew enough to pull his players out of the classes when it started to look suspicious.

Women's soccer Coach Anson Dorrance used faux classes as a recruiting tool for players who didn't want to come to a university where they couldn't also play for a national team.

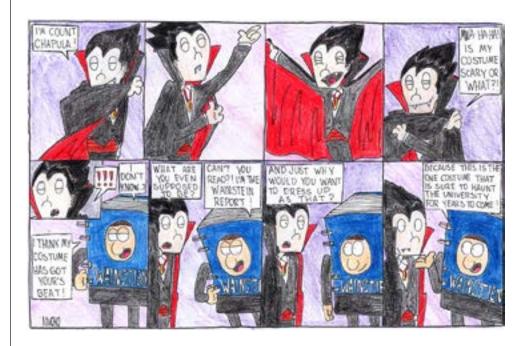

These men didn't have the threat of criminal charges hanging over them to compel them to talk. Therefore, can their accounts in the Wainstein report really be trusted?

It's the coaches and senior level administrators who truly deserve closer examination.

Let's afflict the comfortable.

MISADVENTURES Corey Buhay reflects on the beauty of the fall outdoors.

EDITORIAL CARTOON By Ngozika Nwoko, Chapman and Hilligan, nwoko@live.unc.edu

EDITORIAL

Transparency for all

Other areas deserve Wainstein-level scrutiny, too.

y most accounts, the Wainstein report has indicated the University's commitment to institutional transparency — institutional transparency, at least, with respect to UNC's most nationally visible branch: its athletic department.

It is now time to apply this admirable desire to publicly root out institutional malfeasance to the University's handling of sexual assault, for which it is much less likely to be tried in the court of public opinion.

UNC's new sexual assault policy, released earlier this semester, did well to address what was lacking. Moving forward, UNC students should be able to have somewhat more confidence in the system than in years past. But all parties concerned deserve the same sort of historical, databased accountability afforded to those affected by the athletic-academic scandal detailed in the Wainstein report.

The University should commission a similar study into the history of its handling of sexual assault cases. A "Campus Climate" study about LGBTQ life was released in 2011, and the University is in conversations about another on sexual assault. Despite our cautious faith in the reforms offered under the new policy, something beyond a climate survey is necessary to ensure justice is extended to those who might have been denied it in the past.

The implied expectation of this study would not necessarily be that it uncover similarly stark cases of institutional corruption. Its mandate would instead be to provide a definitive look at the effects of sexual assault policy over time and prevailing campus attitudes.

The University should look to the example of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which recently released a study of students' experience with sexual assault and the conventional wisdom surrounding it.

Much of the debate at UNC surrounding these issues stems from a lack of local, reliable and concrete data concerning the prevalence of sexual assault. An exhaustive study furnishing these details would clear the way for more constructive discussions about the future of sexual assault policy and campus culture.

Of course, the thoroughness exemplified by the Wainstein report doesn't come cheap. In these times of want, it would be difficult not to acknowledge the financial burden that would accompany another investigation of its scope.

But the choice to set aside those funds would be a true indicator of the University's willingness to address impropriety wherever it might occur, irrespective of public pressure to do so. The crisis of sexual assault, we believe, deserves at least the same resources afforded to Wainstein report.

We acknowledge the limitations of conducting a study of crimes committed around, but not by, UNC's institutions. Although evaluations of the University's handling of those crimes should not be softened, Wainstein and his team had the advantage of class records and other University resources in their investigation of academic misconduct.

But UNC should be obligated to provide an educational environment that is both rigorous and safe. A frank assessment of its success, in this regard, would be significant.

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"There's a lot of power in what has been presented, as well as what remains invisible."

Andrew Powell, speaking at a student panel on the Wainstein report

FEATURED ONLINE READER COMMENT

"The culture of unquestioned love for Carolina Blue basketball provided fertile ground for this corruption."

keihin, on UNC's academic-athletic scandal

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Willingham deserves an apology from UNC

TO THE EDITOR:

What former North Carolina governor Jim Martin said "was not an athletic scandal" IS an athletic scandal far worse than anyone could have imagined.

Clearly the need for these paper classes was that UNC admitted many athletes, primarily football players, were so poorly prepared academically that they could not possibly succeed at UNC. This was exposed by Mary Willingham and confirmed by current UNC learning specialist Bradley Bethel in a private letter to the Chancellor.

Willingham has been vilified by many, including Provost Jim Dean, who called her research "a travesty." He compounded this by enrolling outside experts without providing them with full information, as I have learned from correspondence with them. This was a whitewash by the administration. He and the University owe Willingham an apology and a return to her original position.

> Elliot M. Cramer Professor Emeritus Psychology

Research universities should be questioned

TO THE EDITOR: Much of the outrage following the Wainstein report has been directed at athletics, but such limited outrage misses a key issue. The paper class scandal should be and other taxpayers to ask what our public research universities are doing to monitor teaching quality and student learning.

The paper classes were able to persist because, as is the case at most research universities, the university lacks a robust mechanism by which to monitor teaching quality and student learning. Education experts at the K-12 levels have long known that effective teacher evaluations must include regular class observations. Had such observations been in place at UNC, the paper class "scheme" would have been significantly constrained, if not altogether prevented.

If the reforms that happen at UNC and universities across the country are primarily limited to athletics reforms, we will have missed a critical opportunity to improve American higher education. The paper class scandal demonstrates that protecting academic integrity requires not only balancing academics and athletics, but also monitoring teaching quality and student learning. With the extraordinary leaders we now have at UNC, I am confident we will become leaders in both regards.

> Bradley Bethel Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes

Kvetching board™

v.1 (Yiddish) to complain

OK, lemme get this straight, the repeated exploitation of black bodies to fill the pockets of white men is the fault of whom again?

Horrified when I went to "The Purge: Anarchy" to see Future America thirsting for violence and reveling in people's demise. The movie was pretty scary, too.

To the guy who saw me pick my nose in my car, it's snot what you think.

Breaking News: Looks like Pope, McCrory and Jim Crow are correct — we really don't need to study AAAD, we just need to profit from it.

If you walk around campus without a backpack on, I'm going to assume that you're in a paper class.

There is a special place in hell for guys who don't abide by urinal buffer etiquette.

If my dad could see my credit card bill, he'd be asking what Linda's is and why I haven't invested stock in them yet. Casually singing "It's 5 o'clock somewhere" as I attempt to park on campus at 4:30 p.m. without getting a ticket.

Senior year — spending an entire year's salary ordering transcripts and sending test scores before I even have a job yet.

Suggestion for a mandatory freshman seminar: How to tell people where you're sitting in Lenoir.

NBA season started, and I'm just waiting for L to retire and play baseball so that "Space Jam 2" will come out.

I took the GRE on Tuesday and did well. I guess you could say I did GRE-A-T.

To my laptop: I still have to work when I don't have any energy left, so you need to get your shit together.

Shout out to Jan Boxill: Teaching us that ethics are not black and white, but rather qualified based on loyalty.

You know you're in college when your bed sheets have peanut butter and jelly stains in them.

To my fellow driver who decided to make a dead stop in the middle lane of I-40 because you missed the Fayetteville Road exit: Your death wish is not mine; please don't!

This just in: The average person will spend 4.2 years of their life untangling headphones.

1989 — the number of cheapskates who have asked to rip my copy of T. Swift's new album

For the UNC Red Carpet in Miami: Caleb, WHO are you wearing this weekend?

Send your one-to-two sentence entries to opinion@dailytarheel.com, subject line 'kvetch.'

SPEAK OUT

WRITING GUIDELINES

- Please type. Handwritten letters will not be accepted. • Sign and date. No more than two people should sign letters.
- Students: Include your year, major and phone number.
- Faculty/staff: Include your department and phone number. • Edit: The DTH edits for space, clarity, accuracy and vulgarity. Limit
  - letters to 250 words.

SUBMISSION

- Drop off or mail to our office at 151 E. Rosemary St., Chapel Hill,
- Email: opinion@dailytarheel.com

EDITOR'S NOTE: Columns, cartoons and letters do not necessarily represent the opinions of The Daily Tar Heel or its staff. Editorials reflect the opinions of The Daily Tar Heel editorial board, which comprises five board members, the opinion assistant editor and editor and the editor-in-chief

EDITORIAL

Level the playing field

Biased metrics for college admissions should be avoided.

s universities around the country evaluate the efficacy of their admissions programs, the University of North Carolina system has taken a measured step away from some of the flaws of standardized testing. By reducing its emphasis on applicants' SAT scores in admissions to several UNC-system schools, the Board of Governors is proving its literacy in the complicated world of college admissions and taking a needed move toward more equitable tools for academic evaluation.

In 2011, the Board of Governors made the minimum SAT score required for admission 800 out of 1600. The new policy helps students who have high GPAs in high school but who don't quite reach that threshold. Beginning in 2015, the policy will accomeach of the three schools where it is being tested.

modate 100 students at

Nearly 1,000 schools around the country have scaled back their reliance on standardized test scores as significant criteria in their admissions process. This is because standardized tests tend to disadvantage lowincome applicants.

College Board, the college admissions conglomerate responsible for the SAT, is officially a nonprofit corporation, but it places an eyebrow-raising amount of emphasis on generating revenue that appears to have little to do with promoting education.

The high costs associated with the SATs themselves and the many kinds of test preparation courses and textbooks available through College Board favor high-income students. Low-income students, who tend to come from weaker high school and primary education systems, can't always afford the kind of test preparation needed to make high scores.

In order to overcome exclusionary biases in admissions, another possibility for college admissions officers would be to index applicants' SAT scores as predicted by household income and compare that data with students' actual test results.

This would give admissions boards a fuller picture of students' accomplishments. Such a policy would allow admissions boards to view students' achievements without the distortion of a test that unfairly favors the economically privileged.

The direct correlation between high SAT scores and high-income applicants is clear, and the Board of Governors has made a good decision to dabble in devaluing SAT scores. Should this test go well, the policy should be more widely adopted to include the system's larger universities, including UNC-CH and North Carolina State University.